High Court OKs Tax Repeal Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court today ordered Atty. Gen. William J. Brown to certify income tax repeal petitions for statewide distribution.

The court, in a 5-2 decision, granted a writ of mandamus sought by Rep. Joseph Tully, R-37 Mentor, and five other House Republicans, seeking to put the tax to a statewide vote.

The Republicans went to the Supreme Court after five Democratic legislators attempted to block the petitions through Franklin County Common Pleas Court action.

The high court said it had jurisdiction to hear the case regardless of the action in the lower court.

The decision means Secretary of State Ted W. Brown can be printing the necessary repeal petitions. A total of 318,414 valid signatures will be needed to put the issue on the November ballot.

If approved by voters, it would repeal the present income tax Jan. 1, 1973, and require that any future income tax be submitted to the voters.

The Supreme Court said the summary of the preliminary petitions submitted to the attorney general by Tully's group was "a fair and truthful statement of the proposed law" and that the attorney general had agreed that it was and stood ready to certify.

Brown once rejected the preliminary petitions because he felt the summary did not explain exactly what the movement, if successful, would do. He was under a common pleas court injunction to refrain from certifying the second petitions.

Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-56 Shaker Heights, and four other Democrats who voted against the income tax bill had filed the lower court action to block the Tully movement.

Chief Justice C. William O'Neill and Justices Thomas M. Herbert, J. J. P. Corrigan, Leonard J. Stern and Robert E. Leach all voted for the writ.

Justices Louis J. Schneider Jr., and Lloyd Brown dissented.

Berrigan Prosecution Rests Case

Defense Readies Court Motions
For Acquittal

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — After presenting testimony from 64 witnesses, the government has rested its bomb-kidnap conspiracy case against antiwar priest Philip Berrigan and six others.

Today the defense presses motions for directed verdicts of acquittal.

"The government has failed to prove that there has been any conspiracy," said attorney Paul O'Dwyer, a member of the six-man defense team headed by former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

"They didn't prove there was a plot to kidnap the President's adviser, Henry Kissinger, and they didn't prove a plan to blow up government property," O'Dwyer said.

Chief prosecutor William Lynch said, "The evidence is overwhelming that they are guilty."

In a memorandum to U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman, the defendants accused the government of violating their constitutional rights by "proceeding against them in bad faith." They said they would introduce evidence to show this was deliberate discrimination.

"They are being prosecuted not for their conduct alone, but principally to vindicate the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Justice Department of the United States," the 24-page memo said.

"That animus and, indeed, malice arose because of the defendants' conscientious outrage at the government's war in Indochina, and because of their outspoken dedication to civil disobedience as a way of bringing the war to a halt."

"All the officers throughout the division face the same hazards and any decision to the contrary is pure bunk," he said. "The compensation board decision must treat all equally."

R. P. Woods, an officer of the union local at the Chillicothe Correctional Institute, said guards there might go on strike if hazard pay were granted only to Ohio Penitentiary guards.

"If they get it and we don't," he said, "we'll be looking inside from outside the gate."

Guards at the Ohio Penitentiary continued to keep inmates in their cells, except to go to dining halls for meals.

"The situation's about the same," said Warden Harold Cardwell.

"I don't anticipate any change unless we have some sort of uprising," he said, "and I don't anticipate one."

The guards began their work stoppage after inmates went on strike and prison officials conceded to most of their demands. One of the guards' demands is that officials reverse their decision to permit formation of an inmates council to present grievances to the warden.

Circleville Police patrolman Jerry Keller, suspended March 18 by Chief of Police Robert Temple for being discourteous to the public, neglect of duty and insubordination, was reinstated to duty 3 p.m. Friday.

The announcement was made this morning following a meeting Thursday with Keller, Temple, Safety Director Ed Ebert and Keller's attorney Charles Hosterman.

He was restored with full pay, including time off, negating his 14-day suspension.

Heath Move Raises Fear Of Civil War

End Home Rule In Ireland

LONDON (AP) — The British government suspended home rule in Northern Ireland today and took direct control of the strife-torn province in a bid for peace that risks civil war.

Prime Minister Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland, who had engaged in two last-ditch meetings with Prime Minister Edward Heath, denounced the British move.

Heath told the House of Commons that Northern Ireland's Protestant-controlled provincial parliament was being suspended for a year, the internment without trial of suspected guerrillas is being eased, and Roman Catholics would get a greater voice in provincial affairs.

Heath announced that the six Ulster counties will be governed by William Whitelaw, floor manager for the government in the House of Commons, who will be named to the new post of cabinet minister for Northern Ireland.

Whitelaw will be assisted by a commission of local residents "fully representative of opinion in Northern Ireland," Heath declared. This means it would include representatives of the Catholic minority as well as Protestants.

The response from Northern Ireland was almost entirely hostile, and there were fears that Protestant extremists would turn to violence in retaliation for the ending of 50 years of Protestant rule.

Faulkner told the Stormont, Northern Ireland's parliament, that he had warned Heath in their crisis talks that British takeover would be seen in Ulster as a victory for the Irish Republican Army, which wants reunion of the two parts of Ireland.

"I told him," Faulkner said, "that it would be widely construed as an acceptance of totally baseless criticism of our stewardship; that it would be seen by the IRA and others as a first and major step on the road to a terrorist victory."

Faulkner's government is expected to remain in office to run routine provincial affairs until the British Parliament approves takeover legislation next

William Craig, leader of the hard-line Protestant Vanguard Movement who formerly was a member of Faulkner's cabinet, warned that his militants will fight the takeover.

"We would fight," Craig said. "I cannot exclude the possibility of violence."

He declined to comment, however, when asked if a shooting war would break out between his Protestants and the IRA.

In an overture to the Roman Catholic minority in the six northern counties of Ireland, Heath also announced plans to release some of the suspected guerrillas interned there without trial and a plebiscite on whether the people of Northern Ireland want to unite with the Irish Republic.

The outcome of the plebiscite is a certainty since Protestants outnumber Catholics 2 to 1 in Northern Ireland and are solidly opposed to Catholic rule from the South.

Soviet Spy Satellite Eyed

Latest Orbiter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians have sent aloft a big new satellite which may have improved their ability to spy on American communications, U.S. military and space experts say.

After studying Cosmos 476, launched March 1, these experts say they believe it represents a new generation of Russian electronic intelligence satellite.

The "ferrets," as they are called, are designed to eavesdrop on other nations' radio traffic and to monitor radar. They usually record radio and radar signals they pick up.

Ground stations then interrogate the satellites by radio as they pass within range and extract the information.

Both the Soviets and the United States orbit spy satellites which gather intelligence information by camera and with a variety of exotic sensors, but neither government acknowledges use of such satellites.

Most Soviet military satellites are launched under the cover name Cosmos. They usually are described by the Russians simply as research vehicles. The first Cosmos was launched 10 years ago.

U.S. space experts estimate the Cosmos 476 payload at between 10,000 and 12,000 pounds, about 10 times heavier than an earlier generation of Soviet ferrets still in orbit.

They say the heavier weight of the new satellite suggests that it incorporates much more equipment than older models and probably involves a greater degree of technical sophistication.

Murder Suspect Faces Return To Greene County

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Greene County Sheriff Russell Bradley says a man arrested in New York City in connection with a dormitory slaying at Central State University has waived extradition and is being returned here for trial.

Bradley said Michael M. Moore, 20, of Jamaica Queens, N.Y., was visiting the campus at the time of the shooting death of Charles A. Bowen, 22, of Cincinnati last month.

Moore and a Central State student, Jack B. Cornette, 20, of Worthington have been charged with murder. Cornette was arrested five days after the Feb. 20 slaying and is being held without bond in the Greene County jail.

Bowen was found in his dormitory room with two bullet wounds in the head. Police said several items had been taken from the room.

7 - Member 'Public' Pay Board Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new "public" Pay Board set a rare Friday meeting for today as President Nixon pondered which four businessmen he must fire to balance four union defections.

United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock left the board Thursday as Nixon announced his plans to reshape the board.

Woodcock, the fourth labor member to resign in two days, called for a congressional investigation of the whole wage-price control effort. House Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said he might get one.

The President said he will keep the present five public members of the board, plus just enough businessmen to balance whatever union members wish to stay. Woodcock resigned at almost the same time Nixon spoke, leaving Teamsters Union President Frank E. Fitzsimmons the sole representative of organized labor on the board.

So the new board will have seven members: Fitzsimmons, the five public members, and whichever of the present five business members Nixon chooses. The White House said it didn't know who the choice would be or when the decision would be made.

Director George Shultz of the Office of Management and Budget said all seven members would be considered public members, although the union and business representatives would be expected to stand up for their particular views.

The President, who personally announced his plans to newsmen after outlining them to a special session of the Cost of Living Council, severely criticized AFL-CIO President George Meany, who walked off the board Wednesday with two AFL-CIO colleagues.

Nixon said Meany's resignation had been prompted by the Pay Board's rejection of a 20.9-percent first-year pay raise for West Coast longshoremens.

"The Pay Board was right," Nixon said. "Mr. Meany was wrong."

The new, whittled-down shape of the Pay Board may give it a stiffer policy toward individual wage settlements. Had the public members prevailed, for example a 16.8-percent first-year raise for soft-coal miners would have been cut back somewhat in the board's first wage decision last year.

Demolition Of Overpass Scheduled

Demolition of the narrow, deficient grade separation structure carrying Circleville-Tarlton Road over Norfolk and Western tracks, south of Circleville and east of US 23, will get underway April 3.

Suggested traffic rerouting to US 23 during construction is over Ohio 56 into Circleville or over Ohio 159 and Ohio 361.

The $353,464 State Issue One grade separation replacement project was awarded Dec. 21 by the Ohio Department of Highways to Howard Phillips, Inc. of Hilliard.

Plans call for three-span structure with concrete deck, 40 feet wide between deflector parapets, on continuous steel beams and concrete substructure. Improvement also includes approximately 2000 feet of 24-foot pavement with eight-foot shoulders.

Piling for the project is on hand. Structural steel delivery date is approximately May 15.

Seven local area workers are expected to be employed on the project, scheduled for completion Nov. 30. Total estimated payroll for the improvement is $85,000.

Linkletter Revises
Views On Drugs

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Entertainer Art Linkletter says he has revised his thinking somewhat since he began campaigning against drugs two years ago.

"I now agree with young people who believe there is an unwarranted hysteria concerning marijuana," Linkletter said Wednesday. "If the citizenry, police and courts would stop worrying about the relatively minor problem of marijuana, we might go a lot further toward correcting the major problems of hard drug abuse."

Ohio Pen Guards Continue Work Stoppage In Dispute

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Penitentiary guards continued their work stoppage today while the State Employee Compensation Board met to consider their key demand — additional hazardous duty pay.

Officials of unions representing the guards said termination of the work stoppage will depend on board action on the extra pay issue.

Also watching board deliberations were guards at other prisons around the state who contend they should get hazard pay if the penitentiary guards do.

Gubernatorial Team Vote Probably Dead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House possibly killed Thursday a constitutional revision proposal that would have permitted the governor and lieutenant governor to run as a team.

The House refused to act after the Senate adopted a joint House-Senate conference committee report that provided a compromise on both the election and expenses for the lawmakers.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said he thought it would be impossible to accept the proposal later than Monday and follow constitutional provisions requiring it to be advertised five times weekly in general circulation newspapers before the May 2 primary.

"To comply with the five weekly advertisement requirement, Monday is going to be too late," Brown told The Associated Press.

Brown said at least 18 counties have only weekly newspapers and their deadlines for advertising would be almost impossible to meet.

The House has set a session for 8 p.m. Monday, meaning it would be Tuesday before it could even get the issue to Brown.

Brown said he would send it on to board of election in Ohio's 88 counties but that he was skeptical that they could get it published as required.

"I don't think they can do it," said James Marsha, Brown's legal counsel.

Rep. Fred Young, R-34 Dayton, chairman of the House Elections Committee, agreed. "I think it's dead," said Young. He predicted a lawsuit would be filed challenging the issue if printed notices failed to make even one newspaper.

The proposal included several issues aimed at updating procedures of the General Assembly, but the main hangups centered on the election of the governor and lieutenant governor and the expense allowance for legislators.

The conference committee decided that the issue of a governor and lieutenant governor running together in a primary should be left up to the legislature. The original version of the House resolution called for them to run in tandem in both the primary and general elections.

The conference committee also left up to the legislature the matter of expenses for lawmakers in the next General Assembly.

The original proposal would have provided expenses for new lawmakers after the 1984 General Assembly adjourned. The Senate, primarily because 17 of its members will be holdover

Teacher Pay Ruling Seen Next Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association said Thursday night it had been advised the federal Pay Board will consider the state's new minimum teachers salary schedule next week.

OEA President William McDonald said a board subcommittee is scheduled to take up the Ohio case Tuesday on instructions from Board Chairman George Boldt.

"We are extremely optimistic that the Pay Board's action Tuesday will mean that the full schedule will be implemented for Ohio's lowest paid teachers," McDonald said.

The General Assembly enacted last December a new teacher's salary schedule to go into effect in two steps, on Jan. 1 and July 1. The minimum starting pay for a teacher with a BA degree would go from $5,200 to $5,800 retroactive to Jan. 1 and to $6,400 on July 1.

McDonald said Boldt, in a memorandum instructing the Pay Board staff to consider the Ohio case, outlined exceptions to the board's 5.5 per cent 7 per cent wage hike guidelines.

McDonald said one reason he is optimistic that the board will give full approval to the salary schedule is because it will be noninflationary.

"School districts this month will begin to receive additional state funds to pay this schedule," he said. "The question remaining is whether it will be paid to teachers in accordance with the wishes of the 109th General Assembly or whether it is spent in other areas."

The women, members of National Action Group, left Detroit March 15 and are scheduled to arrive in Washington April 27 for an antibusing rally at the Capitol April 29.

7-Member 'Public' Pay Board Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new "public" Pay Board set a rare Friday meeting for today as President Nixon pondered which four businessmen he must fire to balance four union defections.

United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock left the board Thursday as Nixon announced his plans to reshape the board.

Woodcock, the fourth labor member to resign in two days, called for a congressional investigation of the whole wage-price control effort. House Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said he might get one.

The President said he will keep the present five public members of the board, plus just enough businessmen to balance whatever union members wish to stay. Woodcock resigned at almost the same time Nixon spoke, leaving Teamsters Union President Frank E. Fitzsimmons the sole representative of organized labor on the board.

So the new board will have seven members: Fitzsimmons, the five public members, and whichever of the present five business members Nixon chooses. The White House said it didn't know who the choice would be or when the decision would be made.

Director George Shultz of the Office of Management and Budget said all seven members would be considered public members, although the union and business representatives would be expected to stand up for their particular views.

The President, who personally announced his plans to newsmen after outlining them to a special session of the Cost of Living Council, severely criticized AFL-CIO President George Meany, who walked off

the board Wednesday with two AFL-CIO colleagues.

Nixon said Meany's resignation had been prompted by the Pay Board's rejection of a 20.9-per-cent first-year pay raise for West Coast longshoremen.

"The Pay Board was right," Nixon said. "Mr. Meany was wrong."

The new, whittled-down shape of the Pay Board may give it a stiffer policy toward individual wage settlements. Had the public members prevailed, for example a 16.8-per-cent first-year raise for soft-coal miners would have been cut back somewhat in the board's first wage decision last year.

Demolition Of Overpass Scheduled

Demolition of the narrow, deficient grade separation structure carrying Circleville-Tarlton Road over Norfolk and Western tracks, south of Circleville and east of US 23, will get underway April 3.

Suggested traffic rerouting to US 23 during construction is over Ohio 56 into Circleville or over Ohio 159 and Ohio 361.

The $333,464 State One grade separation replacement project was awarded Dec. 21 by the Ohio Department of Highways to Howard Phillips, Inc. of Hilliard.

Plans call for three-span structure with concrete deck, 40 feet wide between deflector parapets, on continuous steel beams and concrete substructure. Improvement also includes approximately 2000 feet of 24-foot pavement with eight-foot shoulders.

Piling for the project is on hand. Structural steel delivery date is approximately May 15.

Seven local area workers are expected to be employed on the project, scheduled for completion Nov. 30. Total estimated payroll for the improvement is $85,000.

Defiance Blast Injures 2 Men

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Two men remained in critical condition at St. Vincent Hospital today with injuries received in an explosion at the Defiance Milk Co. in Defiance Thursday.

Irel Ashbaugh and Carl Sobeck were burned when an ammonia system on which they were working exploded. Cause of the blast was not determined.

The explosion caused extensive damage to that area of the plant.

Linkletter Revises Views On Drugs

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Entertainer Art Linkletter says he has revised his thinking somewhat since he began campaigning against drugs two years ago.

"I now agree with young people who believe there is an unwarranted hysteria concerning marijuana," Linkletter said Wednesday. "If the citizenry, police and courts would stop worrying about the relatively minor problem of marijuana, we might go a lot further toward correcting the major problems of hard drug abuse."

The tax exemption bill was

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 troubled cities to sell bonds and notes totaling the amounts they put into the Police and Firemen's Pension Fund during 1972.

Sen. Robin Turner, R-14 Mar-contributions were used only as a guideline. Since all cities are required to contribute on the basis of population.

"Now when they don't have any money, we're going to let them borrow more so that they'll be more bankrupt next

The House passed two Senate bills—one requiring school districts to pay employees when schools are closed because of a calamity and the other providing for paid holidays for non-teaching school employees.

On many past issues, however, public members have sided with labor members.
Woodcock announced his resignation after a meeting of the UAW executive council in De-

He said the wage-price control program is scandalous and unfair, and hasn't controlled inflation or reduced unemployment.
He said wages have been controlled rigidly while profits have been allowed to soar, charges similar to those leveled by Meany.

Woodcock spoke just hours after the Labor Department an-rose 0.5 per cent last month, the highest monthly increase since before the Aug. 15 wage-

Setbacks, Sickness Weaken
Lon Nol Grip In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Cambodia's ailing dictator, Marshal Lon Nol, has emerged from a two-week government crisis physically and politically weaker.

"Lon Nol's popularity has declined," said one American observer. "He might still win a free election, but he would probably be embarrassed by the amount of opposition displayed."

Red Chinese Set
To Receive Top
Position In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — The United Nations is about to get its first undersecretary-general from Communist China, diplomatic sources reported today.

The sources said Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and the Chinese had agreed that Peking's first representative in the U.N. secretariat's top ech-elon would head the department that deals with trusteeship and nonself-governing territories.

But it is being expanded to deal with colonialism and such related problems as racial conflicts in Rhodesia and South Africa.

The Chinese requested the colonialism post, it was reported. Their request was in line with their desire, expressed when they joined the United Nations, to associate themselves with the so-called Third World, between the Soviet bloc and the United States and its allies.

The top posts in the U.N. secretariat are distributed geographically and include an undersecretary-general from each of the five permanent members of the Security Council—the Soviet Union, China, the United

"It is not so much a dislike of him or his policies but the fact of his illness. The Cambodians feel he cannot carry the burden, but he's still trying to run the show."

"They'd be perfectly willing to keep him as a semiactive president, laying cornerstones and gracing ceremonies."

Lon Nol had been making a slow recovery from the effects of the stroke he suffered last year.

But military reverses, student discontent, rebuffs from men he considered his closest supporters and the political concessions he had to make have taxed his health.

Cambodian newsmen who saw him at a meeting with his province governors Thursday said he could only walk with the assistance of three aides and his hands shook so much he had to hold on to his fingers.

The Marshal's troubles began last fall after he dissolved the National Assembly on Oct. 14 and announced an end to "this sterile game of liberal democracy." The assembly became a constituent assembly charged with drawing up a new constitution.

Lon Nol then came under severe criticism from his field commanders for the failure of the military campaign in the northeast, which he insisted on directing from his sickbed. The government force was routed.

Lon Nol mollified military discontent by promoting many field commanders from colonels to generals. But student opposition was growing and it found a scapegoat in acting Premier Sisowath Sirik Matak, the marshal's most trusted associate and the man who ran things when Lon Nol was too sick.

The crisis came to a head March 10. Lon Nol dissolved the constituent assembly when it was on the verge of ratifying a new constitution, accepted the resignation of Chief of State Cheng Heng and made himself chief of state. Two days later he fired Sirik Matak and his Cabinet and declared himself president of the new Khmer Republic.

Political informants say Lon Nol wanted Sirik Matak to be vice president but he could not ignore the opposition of the students and others, including his brother, Col. Lon Non.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market hesitated today after surging upward Thursday.
Trading was active.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 1.28 at 943.41. Advances on the New had led declines by 2 to 1 earlier, held only a narrow advan-

The Dow average Thursday had risen nearly 11 points, its biggest gain in six weeks, and advances on the Big Board had outnumbered declines 2 to 1.

In the news background, sev-est rates sometimes depresses

Red Cross
Discusses Aid Programs

C. P. Pfeleger, chapter chairman presided at the Wednesday evening meeting of Red Cross board members at Chapter headquarters. Aid program in Pickaway County was a main topic of discussion.
According to the First Aid chairman, John Sanders, efforts are being made to meet the needs of industry in conforming to the Occupational Health and Safety Act of 1970.

Six people have been trained as instructors in the Multi-Media Standard First Aid Course and eight persons received orientation as instructors in the Basic Course.
To be offered to schools, scout troops and other youth groups.
John Harbaugh has been authorized as a First Aid instructor — trainer and will be conducting a course for instructors in the near future.

The service to military families report showed assistance having been given to 35 servicemen or their families during the past month.

The added needs being experienced in the Blood Program due to the large number of open heart surgeries being scheduled for Pickaway County residents is a subject of great concern to the board at the present time. The importance of having a good response at the next visit of the Bloodmobile on April 6 at the Community United Methodist Church was stressed.

A letter was read from George Elsey, National Red Cross president regarding the National Blood Program as being proposed in legislation which has been introduced in the current session of Congress.
It outlined the essential features of any National Blood Program as envisioned by the board of governors of American National Red Cross in order to assure safe, high quality blood products available when and where needed for every patient.

Board members were urged to write their congressman expressing their concern regarding the features necessary in a National Blood Program.
The problems faced by the Chapter due to the large number of one family fires which have occurred this year were discussed at length.
Response of the community was very generous, but a deficit in budgeted funds for this purpose is a matter of concern. Community response to the need for funds in West Virginia has been very generous.

The next meeting will be April 26 at Community United Methodist Church at which time election of officers and recognition of Volunteers will take place.

Patrol Investigates Crashes;
Horse Killed In One Mishap

A total of 14 accidents were investigated Thursday, all but one attributed to the bad road conditions caused by the wet snowfall. Six of the accidents involved injuries to one or more persons, but they were mostly minor.

Of the five investigated in Pickaway County, one could be termed a "spectacular." Officers agree that the passengers were lucky to escape with only bruises and scratches.

The accident took place around 6 p.m. on the bridge on Route 23 near the Deer Creek Auto parts yard. William Rose, 21, and Carolyn Rose, 20, both of Route 1, Rushsylvania, were in a 1965 stationwagon driving north on the bridge when he lost control of the vehicle on the ice. The auto slid right striking the right side of the bridge, then went on north across the median across the southbound lanes, through a guardrail and down the hill.

The auto suffered heavy damage to the front and un-dercarriage, but the only complaint of injury, very slight, was made by Mrs. Rose.

At 7:30 p.m. an accident took the life of a horse on Route 316, four miles east of Five Points.

The horse, owned by Roger
L. Burggraf, 31, of Route 1, Stoutsville, was being hauled to London for a 4-H meeting when the towbar on the borrowed trailer broke. The towed vehicle went off the side of the road, turning on its side.

Burggraf and Patrolman James Bennett were able to get the horse out of the trailer, but it died as they were trying to get the animal to its feet. Its death was apparently caused by internal injuries.

Of the remaining accidents,
seven occurred in Franklin County, and two in Madison County.

Grand Jury
Gets Cincy Escape Cases

CINCINNATI AP) — Hamilton County Sheriff Dan Tehan said Thursday he sought a special grand jury to investigate the escape of 24 prisoners from his jail to "expedite the process of bringing escape charges."

Tehan, who departed for Florida to resume his vacation
Thursday night, said he himself will not testify before the jury which opens today because he was in Florida at the time of the escape Monday.

The sheriff said he preferred the direct route to the grand jury rather than filing charges in Hamilton County Municipal Court, then having the cases bound over to the grand jury.
He said that method would require more time and much movement of prisoners.

Fred Carolano, first assistant Hamilton County prosecutor, said that 50-60 people have been subpoenaed to testify including guards, jailers, police and prisoners.

Thirteen prisoners remained at large three days after the breakout. Garrison Berry, 23, who had been under indictment for housebreaking, surrendered
Thursday afternoon.

Arthur Tarpley, 21, the first of the 11 prisoners recaptured, was placed on five years probation Tuesday by Judge Gilbert
Bettman in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court after the youth pleaded guilty to two counts of housebreaking.

Tarpley, who informed authorities afterward about the details of the escape, was expected to appear at the investigation. Sheriff's officials said Tarpley was not charged with jail break and allowed to go free. He feared for his life that other prisoners might take revenge on him if he was left in jail, the officials said.

members of the new legislature, objected.

"This report is neither a yes nor a no," Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, said of the compromise. "It is a maybe-the worst possible solution."

Both houses, following Thursday's session, recessed until Monday. They will recess for the Easter holiday Wednesday.

In floor action, the Senate passed a bill exempting all retirement and disability income from the state income tax and another measure to permit Ohio cities to sell bonds or notes up to $48.5 million.

The tax exemption bill was authored by Sen. Paul Gillmor, R-12 Tiffin. The state income tax exempted only public employee pensions and those specified by federal law.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, sponsored the measure to allow Ohio's financially troubled cities to sell bonds and notes totaling the amounts they put into the Police and Firemen's Pension Fund during 1972.

Sen. Robin Turner, R-14 Marion, an opponent, said the fund contributions were used only as a guideline. Since all cities are required to contribute on the basis of population.

"Now when they don't have any money, we're going to let them borrow more so that they'll be more bankrupt next year," Turner said.

The House passed two Senate bills—one requiring school districts to pay employees when schools are closed because of a calamity and the other providing for paid holidays for non-teaching school employees.

On many past issues, however, public members have sided with labor members.

Woodcock announced his resignation after a meeting of the UAW executive council in Detroit.

He said the wage-price control program is scandalous and unfair, and hasn't controlled inflation or reduced unemployment.

He said wages have been controlled rigidly while profits have been allowed to soar, charges similar to those leveled by Meany.

Woodcock spoke just hours after the Labor Department announced that the cost of living rose 0.5 per cent last month, the highest monthly increase since before the Aug. 15 wage-price freeze.

Setbacks, Sickness Weaken Lon Nol Grip In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Cambodia's ailing dictator, Marshal Lon Nol, has emerged from a two-week government crisis physically and politically weakened.

"Lon Nol's popularity has declined," said one American observer. "He might still win a free election, but he would probably be embarrassed by the amount of opposition displayed."

"It is not so much a dislike of him or his policies but the fact of his illness. The Cambodians feel he cannot carry the burden, but he's still trying to run the show."

"They'd be perfectly willing to keep him as a semiactive president, laying cornerstones and gracing ceremonies."

Lon Nol had been making a slow recovery from the effects of the stroke he suffered last year.

But military reverses, student discontent, rebuffs from men he considered his closest supporters and the political concessions he had had to make have taxed his health.

Cambodian newsmen who saw him at a meeting with his province governors Thursday said he could only walk with the assistance of three aides and his hands shook so much he had to hold on to his fingers.

The Marshall's troubles began last fall after he dissolved the National Assembly on Oct. 14 and announced an end to "this sterile game of liberal democracy." The assembly became a constituent assembly charged with drawing up a new constitution.

Lon Nol then came under severe criticism from his field commanders for the failure of the military campaign in the northeast, which he insisted on directing from his sickbed. The government force was routed.

Lon Nol mollified military discontent by promoting many field commanders from colonels to generals. But student opposition was growing and it found a scapegoat in acting Premier Sisowath Sirik Matak, the marshal's most trusted associate and the man who ran things when Lon Nol was too sick.

The crisis came to a head March 10. Lon Nol dissolved the constituent assembly when it was on the verge of ratifying a new constitution, accepted the resignation of Chief of State Cheng Heng and made himself chief of state. Two days later he fired Sirik Matak and his Cabinet and declared himself president of the new Khmer Republic.

Political informants say Lon Nol wanted Sirik Matak to be vice president but he could not ignore the opposition of the student leaders and others, including his brother, Col. Lon Non.

Since learning can never take place in a cultural vacuum, attitudes of parents and teachers carry great weight with children. So says Arnold Arnold, successful author of several books about and for children. He emphasizes the importance of touching, tasting, feeling and hearing, all as shared experiences. Concerned parents of new babies will find good solid advice in "Teaching Your Child to Learn."

Children are reading, writing and enjoying poetry more these days. According to Nancy Larrick, "Somebody Turned On A Tap In These Kids." She has edited a selection of explanatory essays by teachers, anthologists and poets. Her book grew out of a Poetry Festival three years ago. Each essay discusses reasons why children express themselves in poetic form and with explosive sensitivity. Gone is "The Village Blacksmith" they say. There is some sentiment in what the kids are writing, but most is full of protest.

Arabs call Morocco a lion. They also call it the land of sunset. The Romans called it Mauretania. But according to Lord Kinross it is, in fact, Barbary, and its political and racial roots are Berber. Lord Kinross condenses the long and complicated history of this unfamiliar country in "Morocco" which he produced along with Dorothy Hales Gary. Miss Gary's many color and black and white photos of the architecture, people, and country-side are of high quality.

Do you think someone should invent a new meat? Is your grocery cart always filled with the same dreary items? Then spend an afternoon with the "New York Times International Cook Book" by Craig Claiborne. Granted, you may not dash to the kitchen to prepare Caviar eggs in aspic or calamari ripieni (stuffed squid). But you will find inspiring new ideas that will please your family. And you'll drool over the exotic recipes and glamorous color photos of famous dishes. This book is for the gourmet, yet any cook will love it.

Many theater-goers assume that mascara, false eyelashes and a little range for highlighting are the necessities of stage make-up. But Susan E. Meyer has photographed and written about the attention to minute details that make this craft an art. Along with professional suggestions about materials, tools and techniques she shows the exact steps which change a face. Following her directions, you can make a face thin, fat, old or classic. This marvelous book also includes a list of suppliers of make-up materials.

Harold Courlanders, authority on tribal cultures, has collected and organized the Hopi legends into one masterful book. In "The Fourth World of the Hopis" he has gathered the essence of the ancient traditions of these wise people. He tells of many many years, for the Hopis, of all the tribes, chose the short stubby blue corn to be their own. This meant that while they would face hardships, they would survive all adversaries.

Not a how-to book, but one which informs the reader with useful general knowledge, is "Law For Everyone." George Bernard Shaw said that marriage is popular because it combines the maximum of temptation with the maximum of opportunity. But if you wish to know your legal rights of wedlock, you may find the answer in this book. It also covers such diverse subjects as bullying neighbors, deathbed statements and consent to surgery. Howard L. Oleck, the author, says it deals with everyday questions and problems of law for the layman.

Since learning can never take place in a cultural vacuum, attitudes of parents and teachers carry great weight with children. So says Arnold Arnold, successful author of several books about and for children. He emphasizes the importance of touching, tasting, feeling and hearing, all as shared experiences. Concerned parents of new babies will find good solid advice in "Teaching Your Child to Learn."

Children are reading, writing and enjoying poetry more these days. According to Nancy Larrick, "Somebody Turned On A Tap In These Kids." She has edited a selection of explanatory essays by teachers, anthologists and poets. Her book grew out of a Poetry Festival three years ago. Each essay discusses reasons why children express themselves in poetic form and with explosive sensitivity. Gone is "The Village Blacksmith" they say. There is some sentiment in what the kids are writing, but most is full of protest.

Arabs call Morocco a lion. They also call it the land of sunset. The Romans called in Mauretania. But according to Lord Kinross it is, in fact, Barbary, and its political and racial roots are Berber. Lord Kinross condenses the long and complicated history of this unfamiliar country in "Morocco" which he produced along with Dorothy Hales Gary. Miss Gary's many color and black and white photos of the architecture, people, and country-side are of high quality.

Do you think someone should invent a new meat? Is your grocery cart always filled with the same dreary items? Then spend an afternoon with the "New York Times International Cook Book" by Craig Claiborne. Granted, you may not dash to the kitchen to prepare Caviar eggs in aspic or calamari ripieni (stuffed squid). But you will find inspiring new ideas that will please your family. And you'll drool over the exotic recipes and glamorous color photos of famous dishes. This book is for the gourmet, yet any cook will love it.

Many theater-goers assume that mascara, false eyelashes and a little range for highlighting are the necessities of stage make-up. But Susan E. Meyer has photographed and written about the attention to minute details that make this craft an art. Along with professional suggestions about materials, tools and techniques she shows the exact steps which change a face. Following her directions, you can make a face thin, fat, old or classic. This marvelous book also includes a list of suppliers of make-up materials.

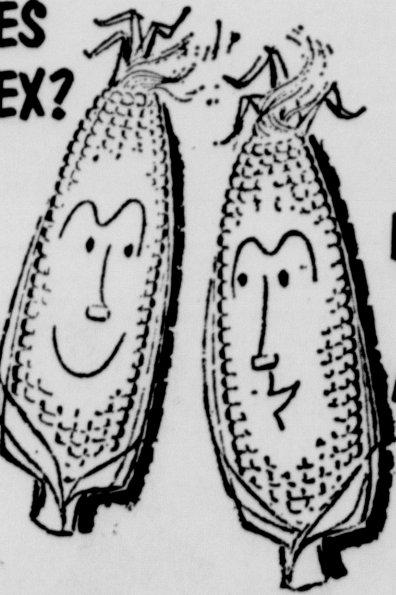

Harold Courlanders, authority on tribal cultures, has collected and organized the Hopi legends into one masterful book. In "The Fourth World of the Hopis" he has gathered the essence of the ancient traditions of these wise people. He tells of many many years, for the Hopis, of all the tribes, chose the short stubby blue corn to be their own. This meant that while they would face hardships, they would survive all adversaries.

Not a how-to book, but one which informs the reader with useful general knowledge, is "Law For Everyone." George Bernard Shaw said that marriage is popular because it combines the maximum of temptation with the maximum of opportunity. But if you wish to know your legal rights of wedlock, you may find the answer in this book. It also covers such diverse subjects as bullying neighbors, deathbed statements and consent to surgery. Howard L. Oleck, the author, says it deals with everyday questions and problems of law for the layman.

Vagrancy Respectable

Vagrancy has a long and not entirely dishonorable history in the United States. Semantically, a vagrant is simply a rootless wanderer. Wherever a person wanders, he finds permanent residents who regard him with suspicion.

Laws which permit the imposition of short jail terms on the charge of vagrancy are based on one theory: anyone who does not work regularly is likely to become an economic burden on those who do.

Lately, taxpayers and court systems have come to realize that 10-day sentences solve none of the problems of either a habitual drunk or an unemployed "traveling man." So vagrancy laws have come into disrepute in many localities, while being selectively enforced in others.

The U. S. Supreme Court has struck

down one vagrancy ordinance which contained language left over from Elizabethan England. It even outlawed juggling as a vocation, reflecting a long-past era when vagrants had to offer some kind of entertainment to earn a meal and a place to sleep.

Today's vagrants are the mixed-up portion of the younger generation, with a sprinkling of young people who have some money but prefer to spend it sparingly while traveling. Such as a small group of hitchhikers with suitcases and a cardboard sign that says, "Calida."

Total enforcement of vagrancy laws today would amount to a declaration of war against a large part of the younger generation. Those who have no visible means of support may be outcasts, but they are not necessarily outlaws.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Eighteenth century London had its White Hart pub, where Dr. Samuel Johnson, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Alexander Pope and other neoclassics gathered for learned discourse and a draught of ale.

Modern-day Atlanta has the Stein Club—the only bar in the world, as far as its habits can determine, that holds an annual spelling bee.

On a Friday night, it packs in more academic degrees per square inch than you could measure with a slide rule.

Hence the spelling bee, forcing Stein Club regulars who dispute and debate year round over draft beer to put up or sit down each January.

The Second Annual Stein Club Orthographic Open was held in the back room of the bar. This reporter went to kibitz and stayed to conquer—beating an economic geographer, an engineer with a masters degree in Middle English literature, an architect, last year's winner—

the state Public Service Commission reporter—and 15 other contestants—by correctly spelling "phthisic," "gyve," "pyrrhic" and "jodhpur."

This display of orthographic pre-eminence earned me the No. 2 engraving on the Annual Orthographic Open plaque that hangs over the Stein Club bar, a case of beer, a hand-struck silver medal and a certificate.

Wearing my seventh-grade spelling medal from Bad Breunach, Germany, for confidence, I made my way through the obscure hubbub in the main room to the back and took my place among the 200 spelling enthusiasts.

As the zero hour of 8:15 approached, someone passed out sheets of yellow foolscap. Sergeant at arms Wilson Paige called for order.

Twenty beer glasses hit the table, twenty ballpoint pens poised over yellow foolscap, and the race was on.

The end of Round 1 spelled heartache and intellectual humiliation for 12 contenders. Round 2 eliminated four and Round 3, two more.

I was still in. My tablemates, hors de combat, rallied round, bending to peer as I wrote "thysic," and again as I scratched it out and substituted "phthisic."

"Gnathion"—which, pronouncer Paul Niblock explained, denotes "the lower midportion of the human mandible"—stumped me. But it stumped my last remaining opponent, Martha van Dusenbergs, too.

The final score was 48 to 45 of a possible 50 words. I bungled "balalaika" in Round 2. "The winner is—Billie Brown!" Cheers. The sound of beer pouring. Applause.

"It's another blow for women's lib," cried the '71 champion, male chauvinist Dick Price.

"Too bad for Price," commented timekeeper Robert Hatcher as he congratulated me. "He wanted us just to go ahead and have ditto marks engraved on the plaque this year."

Horoscope Forecast

SATURDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon you can get much of value done, especially in using intuition to better understand what your companions expect of you. After midday, very different influences come into effect and you would be wise to retire from the world of positive action and work on improving your appearance and wardrobe.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) The early part of the day can be most active and happy at whatever duties you have to perform, but take care you do not get into arguments in p.m. You can spend money foolishly if you do not keep your purse zipped. Take care.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The early part of the day is best to improve situations at home, but don't try to do it in the evening, or big rumpus can start. Get busy with the paint brush and other activities to cheer things up a bit. Show you are optimistic where the future is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The day hours are best for whatever it is you have to do since you could meet up with some accident in p.m. unless careful, so plan to get as much done as you can during day. Go over your letters and see that the wording is right. Ditto for statements, etc.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your judgment is better during the day than at night, so make the right decisions early. Take the time to attend to repairs that are necessary. Make your home really charming and clean.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get work done during the day and then plan to attend some nice social affair in p.m. Dress well. Do not argue with one who is looking for a whipping boy. Smile and all works out fine.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning is best time to go after the information you want in a confidential way, or you could meet with criticism later on. Serve those who are not as lucky as you. Show that you have real poise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Making plans with allies is best in a.m. since they are apt to be less cooperative later in the day, when you had better work alone. Avoid social matters or there will be arguments. Enjoy family instead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) The early part of the day is best for handling affairs in the business world, especially those that are truly vital. Adverse conditions could arise in p.m., but if so, handle them quietly and well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't resort to violence. Take care of personal correspondence in a.m. and don't forget to make those important telephone calls, either. Not a good day for making radical changes or starting on some trip. Care and caution are the keynote now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get duties done efficiently in a.m. and then quietly play, read or whatever really relaxes you. Mate could be in a blue mood so do not expect much fun in that direction. Treat kindly, though.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can easily find out what your true position is with others in a.m. and do nothing that can bring ill will. Control your temper since others are apt to be in a negative frame of mind. Call good friends on the telephone tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) The a.m. is the best time to delve into any new projects you have in mind, but don't take others into your confidence. Your hunches are most accurate, but even these should be kept to yourself. Show devotion to mate in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those highly sensitive people who will absorb whatever the surrounding conditions may be and become morose if they are not up to expectations, so get busy now and make conditions at home more ideal and successful. Your child can become most successful if encouraged by you in the big ideas that are a natural part of this mentality. Send to college of own choice.

Is it worth-while to have an operation for a deviated septum to cure my snoring?

One doctor suggested that it might help but he could not "guarantee" it.

Mr. E. T., N.J.

Dear Mr. T.: The septum that divides one side of the nose from the other is composed of cartilage and bone. Rarely is the nasal septum completely straight. I would say that 98 per cent of all septums have some deviation or curvature in them.

A curved or deviated septum is not the reason for surgery—unless that deviation impairs breathing or compresses normal tissue.

A marked deviation of the septum could conceivably be responsible for snoring, but this in only a vague possibility.

You have a right to expect that surgery will cure your snoring before you undertake the operation. The chances are great, however, that you will be disappointed. It is absolutely impossible for your doctor to "guarantee" the results you desire.

There may be confusion on your part that should be clarified. Sometimes a patient has a marked deviation of the septum which, when straightened, will give him a better airway and make nasal breathing easier. But this will not necessarily affect his snoring.

Under these circumstances there may be an advantage to having the operation. The snoring may not be benefited, but the free flow of air will probably make you more comfortable.

I have difficulty convincing my wife that I have a cold all year round.

She says that no cold could last around the calendar, and that it is must my imagination.

Mr. F. T., Mich.

Dear Mr. T.: I think you would have just as much difficulty convincing me that you have a cold all year round.

Your wife is on the right track. It should lead you to a doctor to find out if there is an allergic basis for such a medical history.

One of my eyes seems to water all the time. This began about four months ago.

What is the cause of this?

Ecology: Positive Approach

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

An organization called the Club of Rome, working through a research team from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has thrown a number of recent economic and population trends into a computer and come up with the prediction that the world will reach its limits of growth before another 100 years have passed. From then on it will be all downhill as the impoverished multitudes try to feed and clothe themselves with disappearing natural resources.

As against this sort of testimony, which consists of riding so-called exponential curves to infinity, Senator Lowell Weicker of Connecticut has just had the nerve to tell the Sierra Club that "common sense Americans don't want zero growth; don't want closed factories; don't accept no technology; don't buy no jobs; don't want brownouts... Just as they don't want to be bombed back to the Stone Age they don't want to be environmentalized back there either."

So we have a collision course charted: the ecologists versus the people. But is there really a collision coming?

A reasonably good answer might be found if one were to "program" the fate of previous "historically inevitable" exponential curves into a computer and see what develops. Did they all go off the graphs at the top? If not, how many of them have levelled off or turned downward? I remember when Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes was predicting the imminent exhaustion of our oil reserves. (This was long before the North Slope of Alaska had been tested.) I also recall something that the ecologists have forgotten: that, in the 1930s there was a hopeful study called chemurgy, which predicted that "anything can be made of anything." To a considerable extent this has come true in the plastics business, which has replaced iron, steel, tin, wood and whatnot with any number of malleable and durable substances that can be had by substituting chemists for prospectors.

The assumption of the ecologists is that people in general, and Americans in particular, must be sufficiently stupid to push several environmental curves toward a combined summit of disaster. But Senator Weicker, calling upon the Sierra Club to use its "energy and influence for positive activism," lists a number of areas where a little application of common sense could throw a few of our currently obsessive exponential curves into the dustbin.

One, there is the curve that says our transportation necessities must continue to rip up the landscape for more and more concrete and asphalt. Not true, says Weicker; the revival of railborne mass transit can put the "highway lobby" in its place.

Two, there is the curve that says our communication needs must continue to ruin our horizons. The Senator combats this idea by bringing up the question of mon technology, which has taught us that satellites may be substituted for telephone poles.

Three, the Senator looks forward to developing energy sources from outer space, which would make the closing down of excess power plants and oil pipelines an academic matter.

Four, Weicker offers the concept of DAWN—Detect and Warn Network—for the "detailing of ecological emergencies and predicting of environmental hazards worldwide through space knowledge." From the sky we can see where pollution originates and where it moves with streams and tides.

If the United States is not going to move in these matters, the well-disciplined Japanese will beat us to the punch. Their industrialists, coming alive to the menace of pollution in an over-populated environment, have begun to comb the world for ideas about producing "clean goods" that will "bear a fair share of the social costs involved." The quotation is from Norishige Hasegawa, the president of the Sumitomo Chemical Company. Japan's largest chemical firm. Mr. Hasegawa, visiting in America, announces that 20 per cent of his $130 million investment budget for 1972 will go for pollution control.

There are reports from Tokyo that Japanese automotive technicians have worked the "bugs" out of the Wankel engine, which could portend a much cleaner motor car. And in the crowded city of Osaka they have begun to run roads over downtown roofs, which gets traffic out of the shoppers' hair. Finally, the Japanese, horrified by what has been done by the dumping of "red mud" from French aluminum plants into the Mediterranean, have begun to crack down on their own aluminum smelting plants. They are going to protect their own waters.

Senator Weicker's lecture to the Sierra Club didn't get a wide pick-up. Positive counsels seldom do. But it is the positive approach that is destined, as the Senator somewhat inelegantly puts it, to throw the doomsayers "right out on their recycled cans."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market is becoming increasingly excitable as it gradually departs its base in good, sound common stocks. Any iota of good or bad news is enough to send an exaggerated quiver through prices.

On Tuesday, for example, the Dow Jones industrial average fell 11 points in early trading even though a quick survey of analysts suggested that there was little consensus as to the reason why.

The likelihood of labor problems, especially involving the West Coast dock workers, the absence of institutional enthusiasm, the unsettled monetary situation, the threat of higher interest rates all were mentioned.

But couldn't these same factors have been mentioned earlier? Of course. But the market was rising, and so the bag of negatives couldn't be called upon. The supply of positive reasons was used then.

Among the positive explanations now in vogue are: the likelihood of improved management-labor relations this year, expectations of renewed institutional interest, the "improving" monetary situation, the chance of a continuation of low interest rates.

In summary, the market has reached a stage where it is looking for excuses to move. The analysts are being employed to fit rather than explain the situation.

Mutual fund sales are down. Redemptions are up. And while for several months the industry was convinced the situation was temporary, it now is a bit uncertain. It fears the days of easy money may be over.

How do you get that money back? By proving you can make money for your customers—lots of it. The pressures force managers to look in the same direction as the speculators. Fundamentals tend to be ignored. Risks are taken.

And the excitement shows up in those big "M" and "W" figures that are traced on the stock market charts.

Lately, taxpayers and court systems have come to realize that 10-day sentences solve none of the problems of either a habitual drunk or an unemployed "traveling man." So vagrancy laws have come into disrepute in many localities, while being selectively enforced in others.

The U. S. Supreme Court has struck

down one vagrancy ordinance which contained language left over from Elizabethan England. It even outlawed juggling as a vocation, reflecting a long-past era when vagrants had to offer some kind of entertainment to earn a meal and a place to sleep.

Today's vagrants are the mixed-up portion of the younger generation, with a sprinkling of young people who have some money but prefer to spend it sparingly while traveling. Such as a small group of hitchhikers with suitcases and a cardboard sign that says, "Calida."

Total enforcement of vagrancy laws today would amount to a declaration of war against a large part of the younger generation. Those who have no visible means of support may be outcasts, but they are not necessarily outlaws.

Horoscope Forecast

SATURDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

Until noon you can get much of value done, especially in using intuition to better understand what your companions expect of you. After midday, very different influences come into effect and you would be wise to retire from the world of positive action and work on improving your appearance and wardrobe.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) The early part of the day can be most active and happy at whatever duties you have to perform, but take care you do not get into arguments in p.m. You can spend money foolishly if you do not keep your purse zipped. Take care.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The early part of the day is best to improve situations at home, but don't try to do it in the evening, or big rumpus can start. Get busy with the paint brush and other activities to cheer things up a bit. Show you are optimistic where the future is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The day hours are best for whatever it is you have to do since you could meet up with some accident in p.m. unless careful, so plan to get as much done as you can during day. Go over your letters and see that the wording is right. Ditto for statements, etc.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your judgment is better during the day than at night, so make the right decisions early. Take the time to attend to repairs that are necessary. Make your home really charming and clean.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get work done during the day and then plan to attend some nice social affair in p.m. Dress well. Do not argue with one who is looking for a whipping boy. Smile and all works out fine.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning is best time to go after the information you want in a confidential way, or you could meet with criticism later on. Serve those who are not as lucky as you. Show that you have real poise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Making plans with allies is best in a.m. since they are apt to be less cooperative later in the day, when you had better work alone. Avoid social matters or there will be arguments. Enjoy family instead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) The early part of the day is best for handling affairs in the business world, especially those that are truly vital. Adverse conditions could arise in p.m., but if so, handle them quietly and well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't resort to violence. Take care of personal correspondence in a.m. and don't forget to make those important telephone calls, either. Not a good day for making radical changes or starting on some trip. Care and caution are the keynote now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get duties done efficiently in a.m. and then quietly play, read or whatever really relaxes you. Mate could be in a blue mood so do not expect much to a fun in that direction. Treat kindly, though.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can easily find out what your true position is with others in a.m. and do nothing that can bring ill will. Control your temper since others are apt to be in a negative frame of mind. Call good friends on the telephone tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) The a.m. is the best time to delve into any new projects you have in mind, but don't take others into your confidence. Your hunches are most accurate, but even these should be kept to yourself. Show devotion to mate in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those highly sensitive people who will absorb whatever the surrounding conditions may be and become morose if they are not up to expectations, so get busy now and make conditions at home more ideal and successful. Your child can become most successful if encouraged by you in the big ideas that are a natural part of this mentality. Send to college of own choice.

Is it worth-while to have an operation for a deviated septum to cure my snoring?

One doctor suggested that it might help but he could not "guarantee" it.

Mr. E. T., N.J.

The septum that divides one side of the nose from the other is composed of cartilage and bone. Rarely is the nasal septum completely straight. I would say that 98 per cent of all septums have some deviation or curvature in them.

A curved or deviated septum is not the reason for surgery — unless that deviation impairs breathing or compresses normal tissue.

A marked deviation of the septum could conceivably be responsible for snoring, but this is only a vague possibility.

You have a right to expect that surgery will cure your snoring before you undertake the operation. The chances are great, however, that you will be disappointed. It is absolutely impossible for your doctor to "guarantee" the results you desire.

There may be confusion on your part that should be clarified. Sometimes a patient has a marked deviation of the septum which, when straightened, will give him a better airway and make nasal breathing easier. But this will not necessarily affect his snoring.

Under these circumstances there may be an advantage to having the operation. The snoring may not be benefited, but the free flow of air will probably make you more comfortable.

I have difficulty convincing my wife that I have a cold all year round.

She says that no cold could last around the calendar, and that it is must my imagination.

Mr. F. T., Mich.

Dear Mr. T.: I think you would have just as much difficulty convincing me that you have a cold all year round.

Your wife is on the right track. It should lead you to a doctor to find out if there is an allergic basis for such a medical history.

One of my eyes seems to water all the time. This began about four months ago. What is the cause of this?

Miss J. O'B., Ariz.

Dear Miss O.B.: A tiny duct runs from the inner angle of the lower eyelid into the nose. It is no larger than the thickness of an ordinary pin and can become obstructed for a variety of reasons.

Ecology: Positive Approach

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

An organization called the Club of Rome, working through a research team from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has thrown a number of recent economic and population trends into a computer and come up with the prediction that the world will reach its limits of growth before another 100 years have passed. From then on it will be all downhill as the impoverished multitudes try to feed and clothe themselves with disappearing natural resources.

As against this sort of testimony, which consists of riding so-called exponential curves to infinity, Senator Lowell Weicker of Connecticut has just had the nerve to tell the Sierra Club that "common sense Americans don't want zero growth; don't want closed factories; don't accept no technology; don't buy no jobs; don't want brownouts... Just as they don't want to be bombed back to the Stone Age they don't want to be environmentalized back there either."

So we have a collision course charted: the ecologists versus the people. But is there really a collision coming?

A reasonably good answer might be found if one were to "program" the fate of previous "historically inevitable" exponential curves into a computer and see what develops. Did they all go off the graphs at the top? If not, how many of them have leveled off or turned downward? I remember when Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes was predicting the imminent exhaustion of our oil reserves. (This was long before the North Slope of Alaska had been tested.) I also recall something that the ecologists have forgotten: that, in the 1930s there was a hopeful study called chemurgy, which predicted that "anything can be made of anything."

To a considerable extent this has come true in the plastics business, which has replaced iron, steel, tin, wood and whatnot with any number of malleable and durable substances that can be had by substituting chemists for prospectors.

The assumption of the ecologists is that people in general, and Americans in particular, must be sufficiently stupid to push several environmental curves toward a combined summit of disaster. But Senator Weicker, calling upon the Sierra Club to use its "energy and influence for positive activism," lists a number of areas where a little application of common sense could throw a few of our currently obsessive exponential curves into the dustbin.

One, there is the curve that says our transportation necessities must continue to rip up the landscape for more and more concrete and asphalt. Not true, says Weicker: the revival of railborne mass transit can put the "highway lobby" in its place.

Two, there is the curve that says our communication needs must continue to ruin our horizons. The Senator combats this idea by bringing up the question of mon technology, which has taught us that satellites may be substituted for telephone poles.

Three, the Senator looks forward to developing energy sources from outer space, which would make the closing down of excess power plants and oil pipelines an academic matter.

Four, Weicker offers the concept of DAWN — Detect and Warn Network — for the "detailed of ecological emergencies and predicting of environmental hazards worldwide through space knowledge." From the sky we can see where pollution originates and where it moves with streams and tides.

If the United States is not going to move in these matters, the well-disciplined Japanese will beat us to the punch. Their industrialists, coming alive to the menace of pollution in an over-populated environment, have begun to comb the world for ideas about producing "clean goods" that will "bear a fair share of the social costs involved." The quotation is from Norihige Hasegawa, the president of the Sumitomo Chemical Company, Japan's largest chemical firm. Mr. Hasegawa, visiting in America, announces that 20 per cent of his $130 million investment budget for 1972 will go for pollution control.

There are reports from Tokyo that Japanese automotive technicians have worked the "bugs" out of the Wankel engine, which could portend a much cleaner motor car. And in the crowded city of Osaka they have begun to run roads over downtown roofs, which gets traffic out of the shoppers' hair. Finally, the Japanese, horrified by what has been done by the dumping of "red mud" from French aluminum plants into the Mediterranean, have begun to crack down on their own aluminum smelting plants. They are going to protect their own waters.

Senator Weicker's lecture to the Sierra Club didn't get a wide pickup. Positive counsels seldom do. But it is the positive approach that is destined, as the Senator somewhat inelegantly puts it, to throw the doomsayers "right out on their recycled cans."

MARCH 1952

20 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Mason and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gordon entertained at the Country Club with a party for a group of friends who had been together for nearly 15 years. Dinner was served for the reunion of old friends including Mr. and Mrs. Mac Mader, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Black, Mr. and Mrs. John Bragg, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Terhune, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rooney.

M. Herbert Hoover, Circleville native, was twice shed of marital entanglements in one hearing before the Franklin County court. During proceedings to secure a divorce from Mrs. Lois C. Hoover, it was discovered that Hoover was still legally married to Mrs. Julia Hoover whom he had married in 1914. Neither had gotten a divorce before he married his second wife in 1937.

After reviewing cases, Domestic Relations Judge Clayton Rose proclaimed "divorces granted," freeing Hoover from both marriages.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Giffin became the parents of the first baby of March when Mrs. Giffin gave birth March 2 to a son at Berger Hospital.

The horse, playing a large and dramatic part in Circleville since 1810 and earlier, was finally squeezed completely out of the picture when one of the town's more familiar sights, the horse-drawn wagon of the street cleaning crew, went off the city payroll. In addition to the horse, the entire crew was laid off in an economy move by the city. To save $6,000 annually, city service director Dewey Speakman directed that future street cleaning be a part-time project of the service department.

Councilman Boyd Horn, in rare form, asked his colleagues for two requests on street lights. One was to install a new light at the intersection of Pickaway St. and Second Ave., the first intersection south of Town St.

He described conditions to fellow councilmen: "It's darker than a pile of black cats there."

Jim Cook was top scorer for Circleville during its 1951-52 season, collecting a total of 231 points. Season record of the team was seven wins out of 21 starts. Dudley Morris came in second pointwise, but copped the best percentage in free throws, 65.7. Other players of note were Jerry Pritchard, Mike Brown, Don Olney and Big Bill Gills. Olney was named the team's most valuable player.

Circleville's city charter commission decided to plan for a city manager form of government here. The commission made preparations to place the issue on the November ballot to permit voters to decide whether they wished to have that form of municipal government.

A new postmaster for the Adelphi area was being sought to fill the vacancy left by the death of Martin Neff after 11 years at that post.

Lincoln Mader, John Anderson of Ringgold and other area residents reported sighting a strange aircraft which left a short exhaust trail which quickly dissipated. It appeared to have no wings and was traveling north at a rapid rate of speed. Lockbourne Air Force base supplied the information that the craft probably was a jet aircraft leaving a vapor trail.

One hundred twenty-four years made lot of difference in the field of science, as evidenced in a copy of a book called "The Indian Physician" by Dr. Jonas Rishal and printed in 1828. The book was in the possession of Edwin Bach, S. Court St.

A 16-year-old Canton youth admitted setting fire to a utility garage at the Pickaway Childrens Home because he "dreamed about doing it." The early morning blaze caused damage estimated at $10,000. The boy was a ward of the home at the time of the fire.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Eighteenth century London had its White Hart pub, where Dr. Samuel Johnson, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Alexander Pope and other neoclassics gathered for learned discourse and a draught of ale.

Modern-day Atlanta has the Stein Club—the only bar in the world, as far as its habitués can determine, that holds an annual spelling bee.

On a Friday night, it packs in more academic degrees per square inch than you could measure with a slide rule.

Hence the spelling bee, forcing Stein Club regulars who dispute and debate year round over draft beer to put up or sit down each January.

The Second Annual Stein Club Orthographic Open was held in the back room of the bar. This reporter went to kibitz and stayed to conquer—beating an economic geographer, an engineer with a masters degree in Middle English literature, an architect, last year's winner—

the state Public Service Commission reporter—and 15 other contestants—by correctly spelling "phthisic," "gyve," "pyrrhic" and "jodhpur."

This display of orthographic pre-eminence earned me the No. 2 engraving on the Annual Orthographic Open plaque that hangs over the Stein Club bar, a case of beer, a hand-struck silver medal and a certificate.

Wearing my seventh-grade spelling medal from Bad Breznach, Germany, for confidence, I made my way through the obscure hubbub in the main room to the back and took my place among the 200 spelling enthusiasts.

As the zero hour of 8:15 approached, someone passed out sheets of yellow foolscap. Sergeant at arms Wilson Paige called for order.

Twenty beer glasses hit the table, twenty ballpoint pens poised over yellow foolscap, and the race was on.

The end of Round 1 spelled heartache and intellectual humiliation for 12 contenders. Round 2 eliminated four and Round 3, two more.

I was still in. My tablemates, hors de combat, rallied round, bending to peer as I wrote "thysic," and again as I scratched it out and substituted "phthisic."

"Gnathion"—which, pronouncer Paul Niblock explained, denotes "the lower midportion of the human mandible"—stumped me. But it stumped my last remaining opponent, Martha van Dusenbergh, too.

The final score was 48 to 45 of a possible 50 words. I bungled "balalaika" in Round 2.

"The winner is—Billie Brown!" Cheers. The sound of beer pouring. Applause.

"It's another blow for women's lib," cried the '71 champion, male chauvinist Dick Price.

"Too bad for Price," commented timekeeper Robert Hatcher as he congratulated me. "He wanted us just to go ahead and have ditto marks engraved on the plaque this year."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market is becoming increasingly excitable as it gradually departs its base in good, sound common stocks. Any iota of good or bad news is enough to send an exaggerated quiver through prices.

On Tuesday, for example, the Dow Jones industrial average fell 11 points in early trading even though a quick survey of analysts suggested that there was little consensus as to the reason why.

The likelihood of labor problems, especially involving the West Coast dock workers, the

But couldn't these same factors have been mentioned earlier? Of course. But the market was rising, and so the bag of negatives couldn't be called upon. The supply of positive reasons was used then.

Among the positive explanations now in vogue are: the likelihood of improved management-labor relations this year, expectations of renewed institutional interest, the "improving" monetary situation, the chance of a continuation of low interest rates.

In summary, the market has reached a stage where it is looking for excuses to move. The analysts are being employed to fit rather than explain the situation.

Mutual fund sales are down. Redemptions are up. And while for several months the industry was convinced the situation was temporary, it now is a bit uncertain. It fears the days of easy money may be over.

How do you get that money back? By proving you can make money for your customers—lots of it. The pressures force managers to look in the same direction as the speculators. Fundamentals tend to be ignored. Risks are taken.

And the excitement shows up in those big "M" and "W" figures that are traced on the stock market charts.

Special recognition was given to Ebert for furnishing free ice to the blood bank every month. Guests were Mark Frericks, Jerry Keller, Rev. Roy Osborn and Dick Adcocks.

Third Entry Is Recorded In Contest

DEBBIE PENWELL

A third Pickaway County miss has joined the competition for the honor and title of Miss Ohio Teenager.

The newest applicant is Debbie Penwell, a 16-year-old high school student from Tarlton.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Students at Stivers High School have begun their spring break a day early today following racial fighting Thursday in which seven persons were injured and nine arrested.

Icy Roads Cause Minor Auto Crashes

Two persons received minor injuries in six auto crashes investigated by the Pickaway County Sheriff's office Thursday night after snow and cold temperatures caused slippery county roads.

Charles D. Smith, 29, Laurelville, was treated for abrasions to his left knee after he lost control of his car in a railroad overpass on the Circleville-Tarlton Road 11:10 p.m.

Smith, eastbound on the road, applied his brakes once on the elevated surface. His car slid to the right and struck the right guard rail before spinning around, the rear striking the left guard rail.

Mildred E. Martin, Stoutsville, was referred to a doctor for treatment of minor injuries suffered 9:20 p.m. Thursday when she lost control of her car on the Stoutsville Pike and turned across the road into a fence owned by Allen Ankrom, Route 4.

The sheriff's department also investigated non-injury crashes on Route 22 at the Scioto River Bridge 5:55 p.m. when a westbound motorist skidded into an eastbound car.

At 9 p.m. on Route 762 just southeast of Welsh Road when a driver slipped off the road into a fence.

At 9:40 p.m. on Route 56 northeast of Morris Church Salem Road when a driver lost control and spun into a fence.

At 10:25 p.m. on Badger Road when a driver lost control of his car, slid into a telephone pole and flipped the car on its top.

Burt Reynolds Nude Centerfold Model

NEW YORK (AP) — Burt Reynolds, brawny actor and nude centerfold in Cosmopolitan magazine ... nude??

"When I list the three most unimportant events in my life, this will be one of them," Reynolds said Wednesday.

The naked truth, he added, is "I thought it was good for a laugh. And it's something unpredictable, something I like to be. It was intended as a spoof takeoff on Playboy."

Ted Brown Seeks Pay For Lawyers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Saying he could not legally comply, Atty. Gen. William Brown rejected Thursday a request by Secretary of State Ted Brown to pay lawyer bills the secretary incurred in two reapportionment suits.

The attorney general said the services performed by John McElroy, a Columbus attorney hired by Ted Brown, were "properly the responsibility of my office."

Under state law, the attorney general is required to represent any state official involved in a legal action.

But the secretary of state, a Republican member of the Democratic-controlled state Apportionment Board, argued that the attorney general, a Democrat, could not properly represent his interests in a political matter.

Decide Slayings In Toledo Area Not Connected

ERIE, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State police have decided there was no connection between two abduction-murders near the Ohio-Michigan border.

Police had said Wednesday they thought the murders were connected. They did not say why they changed their minds.

Earl Ludlow, 68, was kidnapped from his party store in Temperance, Mich., Tuesday night and later found shot to death. Joseph Satcher, 22, a Toledo service station attendant, was murdered after also being abducted by a holdup man.

The bodies were found about three miles apart north of Toledo, just inside the Michigan boarder.

The legislature included an item in its appropriations bill to pay McElroy, but Gov. John Gilligan vetoed it. McElroy, who was chief aide to former Gov. James A. Rhodes, submitted a bill for $1,462.50. He represented Ted Brown in suits before the Ohio Supreme Court and the U.S. District Court.

Ted Brown Seeks Pay For Lawyers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Saying he could not legally comply, Atty. Gen. William Brown rejected Thursday a request by Secretary of State Ted Brown to pay lawyer bills the secretary incurred in two reapportionment suits.

The attorney general said the services performed by John McElroy, a Columbus attorney hired by Ted Brown, were "properly the responsibility of my office."

Under state law, the attorney general is required to represent any state official involved in a legal action.

But the secretary of state, a Republican member of the Democratic-controlled state Apportionment Board, argued that the attorney general, a Democrat, could not properly represent his interests in a political matter.

Decide Slayings In Toledo Area Not Connected

ERIE, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State police have decided there was no connection between two abduction-murders near the Ohio-Michigan border.

Police had said Wednesday they thought the murders were connected. They did not say why they changed their minds. Earl Ludlow, 68, was kidnapped from his party store in Temperance, Mich., Tuesday night and later found shot to death. Joseph Satcher, 22, a Toledo service station attendant, was murdered after also being abducted by a holdup man.

The bodies were found about three miles apart north of Toledo, just inside the Michigan border.

The legislature included an item in its appropriations bill to pay McElroy, but Gov. John Gilligan vetoed it. McElroy, who was chief aide to former Gov. James A. Rhodes, submitted a bill for $1,462.50. He represented Ted Brown in suits before the Ohio Supreme Court and the U.S. District Court.

WEDDING DATE NEARS — Rep. Barry Goldwater, Jr., (R-Cal.) and his bride-to-be, Susan Gherman, a UCLA student, have eyes only for each other as they attend the presentation of local Emmy awards in Hollywood. Their wedding will take place March 30 in Newport Beach, Calif.

In your lawn—and in your pocket.

TURF BUILDER is the lawn food we recommend most often for spring fertilizing. It releases its nutrients only as fast as the grass can use them. So there's no spindly surge growth to cause extra mowing and no wasteful leaching away of the nutrients — no matter how much it rains. TURF BUILDER produces a thicker, greener, sturdier lawn. Lasts longer too, because it's Tri-onized.

Track Team Seeks Good Sportsman

By JOE MCGOWAN

The 1972 track team is no different than any other team in the field of sports. They are out to win, but more importantly, they are out to be good sportsmen.

As a hard-working, devoting team, members have set many goals for this season. The League Meet is always the main concern, and victorious this year, it will be the third consecutive year. This will mean a lot to the team because, no other team at CHS, except possibly the football team, has won the league three years straight.

Next there will be the sectional, then the district, and the all important State Meet. As a team, the Tiger tracksters hope to get a few of their more talented athletes to this final goal.

This year the team will be helped by a fine group of sophomores totalling somewhere around fifteen. These young men will always be needed to build team strength.

The Junior Class, also a fine group of men, has around ten promising runners with a few lettermen returning. The Senior Class is always the last one on the list, and it has at least ten good runners. It would be impossible to have any kind of athletic team without the veterans, for they are the ones where much of the responsibility lies.

As the year progresses, it is hoped that the squad will add to its winning list of track trophies. The team would also like to have all the support possible from parents as well as the students.

James Lint, head coach, is loved by all the teammates, and considered unreplaceable. He is helped by Denny Williams, assistant coach. They both add a great deal to the team.

Coach Lint had a few comments to offer about this season: "I feel that this year is looking more promising than it ever has. The group faces the toughest schedule ever put to them. I think from the 440 on up we will be at our strongest with a hard-working sprinting group close behind." There is a little weakness in the field events with the exception of the shot and discus.

Up With Willie

AN EDITORIAL
By Craig Allison

We, the Red and Black staff of CHS, try to report life and news on a week to week basis as best we know how. One area left mostly to the boys is that of sports. Boys on the staff are quite proud of their sports reporting, and rightly so.

But try as we might, we cannot report stories as well as one who is a professional. There are professionals in all phases of sports — in football, basketball, hockey, and many others. But this man we are talking about is a professional in his own field, that of sports reporting.

Unlike most newspaper officials, this man finds stories himself; he is always on the hunt for an exciting story. As sports editor, he is in the locker rooms of CHS quite frequently. Most of the athletes refer to him affectionately as "Willie." He is the sports editor of the Circleville Herald, William McGaffney. Mr. McGaffney has been quite ill for some time, and we would like to welcome him back to the newsroom.

A lot of people in Circleville can take a lesson from Bill McGaffney. He is always talking to all athletes from the schools, and not just the stars. He talks to the subs, the manager, and the trainers. And it is never a harsh word; instead, always a word of encouragement, or a wish of good luck for an upcoming game or meet.

If the athletes of CHS were asked, they would surely answer that they would like an entire town full of Bill McGaffneys. It is people like Bill who provide an incentive to win and excel. He takes a genuine, sincere, active interest in the young people of Circleville and Pickaway County. It would be great if every team could have many more like him.

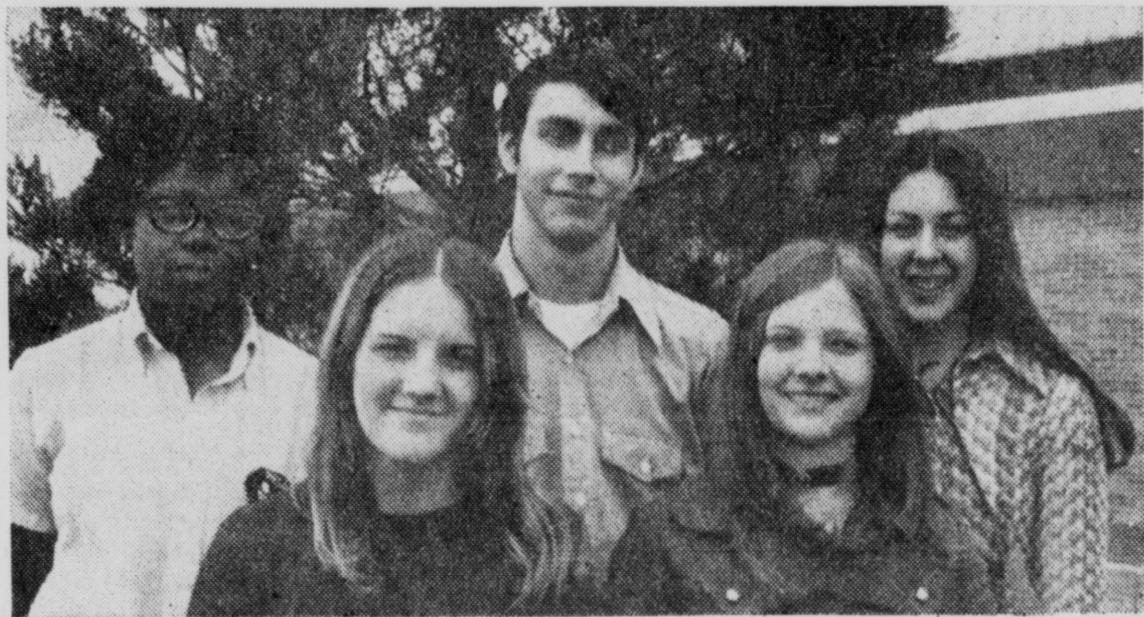

The Red and Black staff, on behalf of the athletes, students, and citizens of Circleville, welcome Bill McGaffney back to his old spot in the newsroom of the Herald, and wish him continued good health and good luck.

The Red and Black

Campaigning Is Heavy In Council Election

By DAN DELONG

Circleville High School has been selected as the site for the 1972 Student Council election convention. Great enthusiasm was shown by the sophomores and juniors as the candidates were presented to them in an assembly Monday morning.

The person most responsible for bringing the convention to CHS is Mrs. Gillespie, council adviser. She brought the massive mob to order as she read from the Student Council Constitution. She explained to the delegates that the constitution was written by the CHS Student Council, and all candidates running would have to abide by this written rule. She continued by telling the conventioners that the student council is only as good as its officers which they will be responsible in picking.

The present Student Council officers whose jobs are up for grabs told about their job and introduced the people running for their office. Secretary Karen Litten was absent as Lyn Easter and Debbie Radabaugh were introduced as running for that job.

This year's treasurer spoke on the hardship of this job and the accuracy that was needed to keep the money in the bank and the books in order. He introduced Pat Currie and Diana Hubber as running candidates for the job.

Tom Shea was the given the floor and the podium and told the underclassmen that the vice president usually got the jobs no one else would do. Tom then introduced the five possible vice presidents: Sherry Mueller, Debbie McCauley, Debbie Brian, R. N. Phillips and Pam Poorman. Each made a small speech telling, if elected, they would do the job the best they could.

Student Council President of 1971-72, Joe McGowan, told of the hard job of being president to the candidates and the assembled students. Joe explained that being a president is much more rewarding than just being a representative, because a president is much more involved. But the president is the one to whom all criticism is directed. Candidates were then presented before the huge throng of delegates, television cameras and hundreds of newspaper reporters as each had to give a small speech naming their abilities, their goals or whatever they wished to tell the world.

Matt McGowan, hoping to continue the McGowan dynasty over student council was introduced first. The latest candidate to the convention was Bert Keener who presented a great speech on his beliefs.

Gentleman Mike Logan spoke next on what he will try to do if elected to this high office. Tom Hamilton was the only one of the group to show the true spirit of a politician in action. He illustrated his speech by fast double talk, bribing the conventioners by throwing candy to them, and last using beautiful dancing girls as a persuasion. The last candidate, Bill Halstenberg, came up muddling as he said Tom Hamilton was only capable to run a candy store or a three-ring circus. He went on to say that he could promise nothing but would use his best ability if elected.

As the bands quieted and the huge banners lay abandoned, the convention came to a close. A few of the candidates lingered in the auditorium to try to win a few more delegates for they knew it would be a long hard run to the finish line. The first obstacle in their way to their prospective goals is the primary election, held today. If the candidates pass this, they will have to campaign hard for the general election the following week. And to the victorious winner, the only reward is a year of hard work.

DEBBIE GAINES

DE Student Of The Week

By LINDA CORDLE

Debbie Gaines is this week's DECA student. She lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Gaines, three brothers and two sisters.

Debbie works at Bill Gaines Auto Repair as a secretary. Her duties include taking phone calls, collecting money, pick up and delivery of cars, making out notices and receipts and picking up auto repair parts. She works five days a week for a total of fifteen hours.

She got this job because her father needed help with his secretarial work. Before working for her father, she was employed at Burger Chef.

Debbie says, "I like secretarial work and in this way I can get experience for one year before going out on my own." She meets the public all the time and feels it helps her get over her shyness when meeting people for the first time.

She thinks DECA gives you a chance to work in the outside world while still in school and learn about retailing in class. The DECA Club brings a little fun into the work.

After graduation she plans to get a job in the field of distribution.

Class Of 1972

Compares Itself

By CAROL HODGES

How does the Class of '72 compare with other senior classes of the past?

Well, we are not really sure, but there are some useless facts about the 222 soon-to-be graduates which might be worth mentioning.

The majority of the class plans to further their education in some manner. There are 40 honor graduates — making the most any class has ever had. Nine students plan to marry shortly after graduation. Only 14 are attending out-of-state colleges or universities, and all but two of these are in bordering states to Ohio. Unlike last year's class (with Ohio State University as its favorite school), the most popular choice for this crop seems to be Miami University at Oxford, Ohio. At present, 21 of the class have made the choice for that school.

Within the class, we have some records. Terry Morrison was the first Circleville student to win the Bob Bowsher Trophy. Steve Richards was the first state champion in track and Mark Davey took the first state championship in wrestling.

Dave Grigg is the tallest student in the class, and Teresa Troutman is the shortest. '72 will be the first class to graduate on the football field (with a little luck from the weatherman!).

Sacrifice Stressed In Assembly

Circleville High School's athletes were excused from classes third period Tuesday and were assembled in the auditorium to hear Charles Miller, the regional area director of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, speak about the values of today's athletes and the amount of sacrifice required.

The main theme of Mr. Miller's talk was the fact that some athletes today don't give 100 per cent of the time and then try to blame their failures on other people or circumstances.

Mr. Miller then went on to cite examples of dedicated Christian athletes who he has coached over the years.

Monday night the Kiwanis Club of Circleville entertained the lettermen of the basketball and wrestling teams of Circleville High School with a dinner and the message of the evening was delivered by Mr. Miller.

Also, Tuesday morning Mr. Miller was the guest speaker at a breakfast sponsored by the Pickaway County adult chapter of FCA, and held at the L-K Restaurant.

Mr. Miller is quite a busy man, as being the regional area director involves quite a lot of traveling through Indiana, Illinois and Ohio, the three states making up his region.

Mr. Miller then went on to cite examples of dedicated Christian athletes who he has coached over the years.

Monday night the Kiwanis Club of Circleville entertained the lettermen of the basketball and wrestling teams of Circleville High School with a dinner and the message of the evening was delivered by Mr. Miller.

Also, Tuesday morning Mr. Miller was the guest speaker at a breakfast sponsored by the Pickaway County adult chapter of FCA, and held at the L-K Restaurant.

Mr. Miller is quite a busy man, as being the regional area director involves quite a lot of traveling through Indiana, Illinois and Ohio, the three states making up his region.

Up With Willie

AN EDITORIAL
By Craig Allison

We, the Red and Black staff of CHS, try to report life and news on a week to week basis as best we know how. One area left mostly to the boys is that of sports. Boys on the staff are quite proud of their sports reporting, and rightly so.

But try as we might, we cannot report stories as well as one who is a professional. There are professionals in all phases of sports — in football, basketball, hockey, and many others. But this man we are talking about is a professional in his own field, that of sports reporting.

Unlike most newspaper officials, this man finds stories himself; he is always on the hunt for an exciting story. As sports editor, he is in the locker rooms of CHS quite frequently. Most of the athletes refer to him affectionately as "Willie." He is the sports editor of the Circleville Herald, William McGaffney. Mr. McGaffney has been quite ill for some time, and we would like to welcome him back to the newsroom.

A lot of people in Circleville can take a lesson from Bill McGaffney. He is always talking to all athletes from the schools, and not just the stars. He talks to the subs, the manager, and the trainers. And it is never a harsh word; instead, always a word of encouragement, or a wish of good luck for an upcoming game or meet.

If the athletes of CHS were asked, they would surely answer that they would like an entire town full of Bill McGaffneys. It is people like Bill who provide an incentive to win and excel. He takes a genuine, sincere, active interest in the young people of Circleville and Pickaway County. It would be great if every team could have many more like him.

The Red and Black staff, on behalf of the athletes, students, and citizens of Circleville, welcome Bill McGaffney back to his old spot in the newsroom of the Herald, and wish him continued good health and good luck.

As stated above, the winning Maiden will receive a $1,000 scholarship to the school of her choice, payable over a four-year period. A variety of other gifts and awards will be distributed among the top five selectees and all participants will receive mementos of this event.

The Pageant itself will be held the afternoon of June 11, with an interview-rehearsal the day before, June 10, both at the Park of Roses.

Anyone who is interested should contact Mrs. Gillespie in the guidance office.

Moliere Comedy Is Meaningful

By KAREN LITTEN

On April 28 and 29, the Senior Class will present "The Imaginary Invalid," a comedy by Moliere, well-known seventeenth century playwright.

In order to appreciate the art and talent of Moliere it is essential to compare him to the other famous playwrights of the seventeenth century.

"We should like our works to be as solid and full of useful instruction as were those of antiquity," wrote Racine, a well-known French playwright of seventeenth century France. He, like many of his contemporaries, accepted their aristocratic world as it was. They wrote for instruction only, without including any criticism into their works.

Moliere, in spite of his loyalty to the king, ridiculed the aristocrat. He "did not see why there should be a privileged class."

A young rebel, he differed in his art from the dramatic concepts current in his time. His style is a development of the Italian "commedia dell'arte" and of the old French farce.

Moliere felt that to act was to make a face or a body move; that the actor was matter, and from that matter the spirit flows. He scorned putting together a plot. In "The Imaginary Invalid" the plot is only a thin thread holding together the comic scenes. This is the essence of Moliere's style in the Senior Class production.

X-Rated Films Turn Grandma Off

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me, am I an old fashioned, prissy, 52-year-old wife, mother and grandmother because I don't enjoy going to X-rated movies? My husband thinks I am.

He asked me to go to one of those movies with him and I did, and I didn't care for it at all. To me sex is something beautiful between a husband and a wife and I don't like to see it exploited before my eyes on a movie screen.

My husband says it turns him on. Well, it turns me OFF! Do you think I should go to sexy movies with him just to keep him company? I find them humiliating.

OLD FASHIONED
DEAR OLD: If your husband needs an X-rated film to turn him on, let him go alone. And tell him to hurry straight home before you turn IN or he's turned OFF!

Sophomore Is Welcomed

KAREN HAMNER

By LISA WILLIAMS

This week the Red and Black staff is featuring Karen Hamner, a new sophomore at CHS.

Karen resides at 454 Watt St. with her father, S. D. Hamner. She moved here two weeks ago from Chillicothe where she was very active in student council and GAA and was a majorette for three years and a cheerleader.

Here, Karen is planning on trying out for cheerleader this April.

When asked her opinion of the school she replied, "The school is smaller, but the people are real friendly."

Her hobbies include gymnastics, collecting records and collecting clothes.

After graduation she plans on going to the Ohio University branch in Chillicothe and entering into physical education.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the propriety of asking a hostess, when she invites you to dinner, "Who else is coming?" I don't think it's impolite to ask. I always do. And it's not because I may want to decline or accept, depending on who else will be there.

We live in the suburbs, and if friends who live nearby are going to the same party in the city, it's convenient and fun to ride together. If I invited someone to a party, and she asked who else was coming because if she didn't care for someone of my other guests she might decline, I would rather she did.

ALWAYS ASKS
DEAR ALWAYS: Your reason for asking is a valid one, which changes the complexion of the situation. So, don't guess who's coming to dinner. Ask!

DEAR ABBY: In reference to "Disgusted" who had so many bad experiences with service and repairmen who didn't show up, she should call the Better Business Bureau when shopping for a repairman. And even more important, if one doesn't show up, she should let the B.B.B. know about it. Businessmen with a reputation for "standing up" their customers don't stay in business long. And your complaints to the B.B.B. are kept strictly confidential.

ALL FOR THE B.B.B.
DEAR ALL: Thanks for the reminder. Now hear it from the repairmen:

DEAR ABBY: Since others use your column to air their pet gripes, may I?

It's customers who, when they arrange for an appointment to repair their television, fail to be there, or even leave a door unlocked. They don't call, they just aren't there. (Always an excuse, "I went to the store for a few minutes," car trouble, etc.) Abby, time is money, and these inconsiderate people cost us both.

My other repairman friends tell me they've had the same lousy experiences with some customers. What's the matter with people nowadays? Their word isn't worth a thing.

DISGUSTED REPAIRMAN IN TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: You wrote, "I think there should be a special place in heaven for the woman who marries a divorced man with the first family, because as far as the man is concerned (whether from guilt or whatever) his 'first' family usually comes first. And the same holds true for a divorced woman with a first family. Abby, I don't want to get personal, but such insight and compassion could only have come from a woman who has had that experience. Did you perchance marry a divorced

Churches Ponder Problems Of Chaplaincy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — American Protestant representatives are moving toward a showdown with the Navy over the moral supervision of its chaplains, a right the churches insist belongs to them and not to military commanders.

"We've finally been jolted into acting to get this principle cleared up," says the Rev. Dr. A. Raymond Applequist, of Washington, D.C., executive director of the General Commission on Chaplains and Armed Forces Personnel.

"Whatever the outcome, it undoubtedly will also affect relations with the other two armed services."

The historically touchy issue was brought to a head by the Navy's court martial case against a career chaplain, Cmdr. Andrew Jensen, accused of having had sexual affairs with two Navy wives, charges he vigorously denies.

"It's a very peculiar case, absolutely unique in my experience," says Dr. Applequist, who for 10 years has directed the interdenominational agency representing 41 Protestant denominations in providing military chaplains.

"The jurisdictional tensions have always been there, but they had never broken down until in this instance," he added in an interview. "It has pointed up the urgency for clarification of basic principles."

It also has caused Cmdr. Jensen's denomination, the American Baptists, to halt the supplying of any more chaplains to the Navy, and opened the possibility that other denominations might follow suit.

Beyond the individual case, however, no matter how unusual the circumstances of the Navy trying a man for alleged illicit sex relations, it has served as a catalyst opening up the wider issue.

"It involves the whole bag of church state tensions," Dr. Applequist said. "These have always been simmering in regard to the chaplaincy, where military and church authority overlaps, but until now, we've always been able to resolve the friction."

Under the present system, church "endorsement" is required for commissioning to the military chaplaincy, thus attesting to ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the men. If such "endorsement" is withdrawn, the chaplain is released from duty.

Although the churches recognize that chaplains are subject to general military discipline, and also to trial if involved in a crime such as murder or theft, they insist that in moral areas, the church—not the military—retains supervision over its ministers.

"It's a problem for jurisdictional rights," says the Rev. Charles Willis, of Valley Forge, Pa., head of the American Baptist chaplaincy service. "It's the first time the whole thing has blown up."

It came at a time of rising pressure in the churches for shifting to a civilian chaplaincy in the armed services on the ground that the chaplain should be subject only to his religious calling, not to a military master.

Out of the present conflict, Dr. Applequist said, there may emerge some other approach to the chaplaincy, easing the present tensions of dual allegiance.

Nixon Asks Aging Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to provide an extra $100 million next year to bolster efforts to improve nutrition for those over 65.

Reviewing current and proposed programs to help the elderly, Nixon included the proposal in a 12,000-word special message. It focused on a new appeal for early enactment of the now-pending welfare reform bill which embraces liberalization of the Social Security program.

"Clearly the passage of this bill is a matter of very highest priority," he said. "... further delay is absolutely inexcusable. To delay these reforms by even one more year would mean a loss for older Americans alone of more than $5 billion."

The President originally asked for $157 million in spending under the Older Americans Act in the 1973 fiscal year that starts July 1. He announced he is seeking an additional $100 million "for nutrition and related services."

Hussein Slates Journey To U.S. Within Few Days

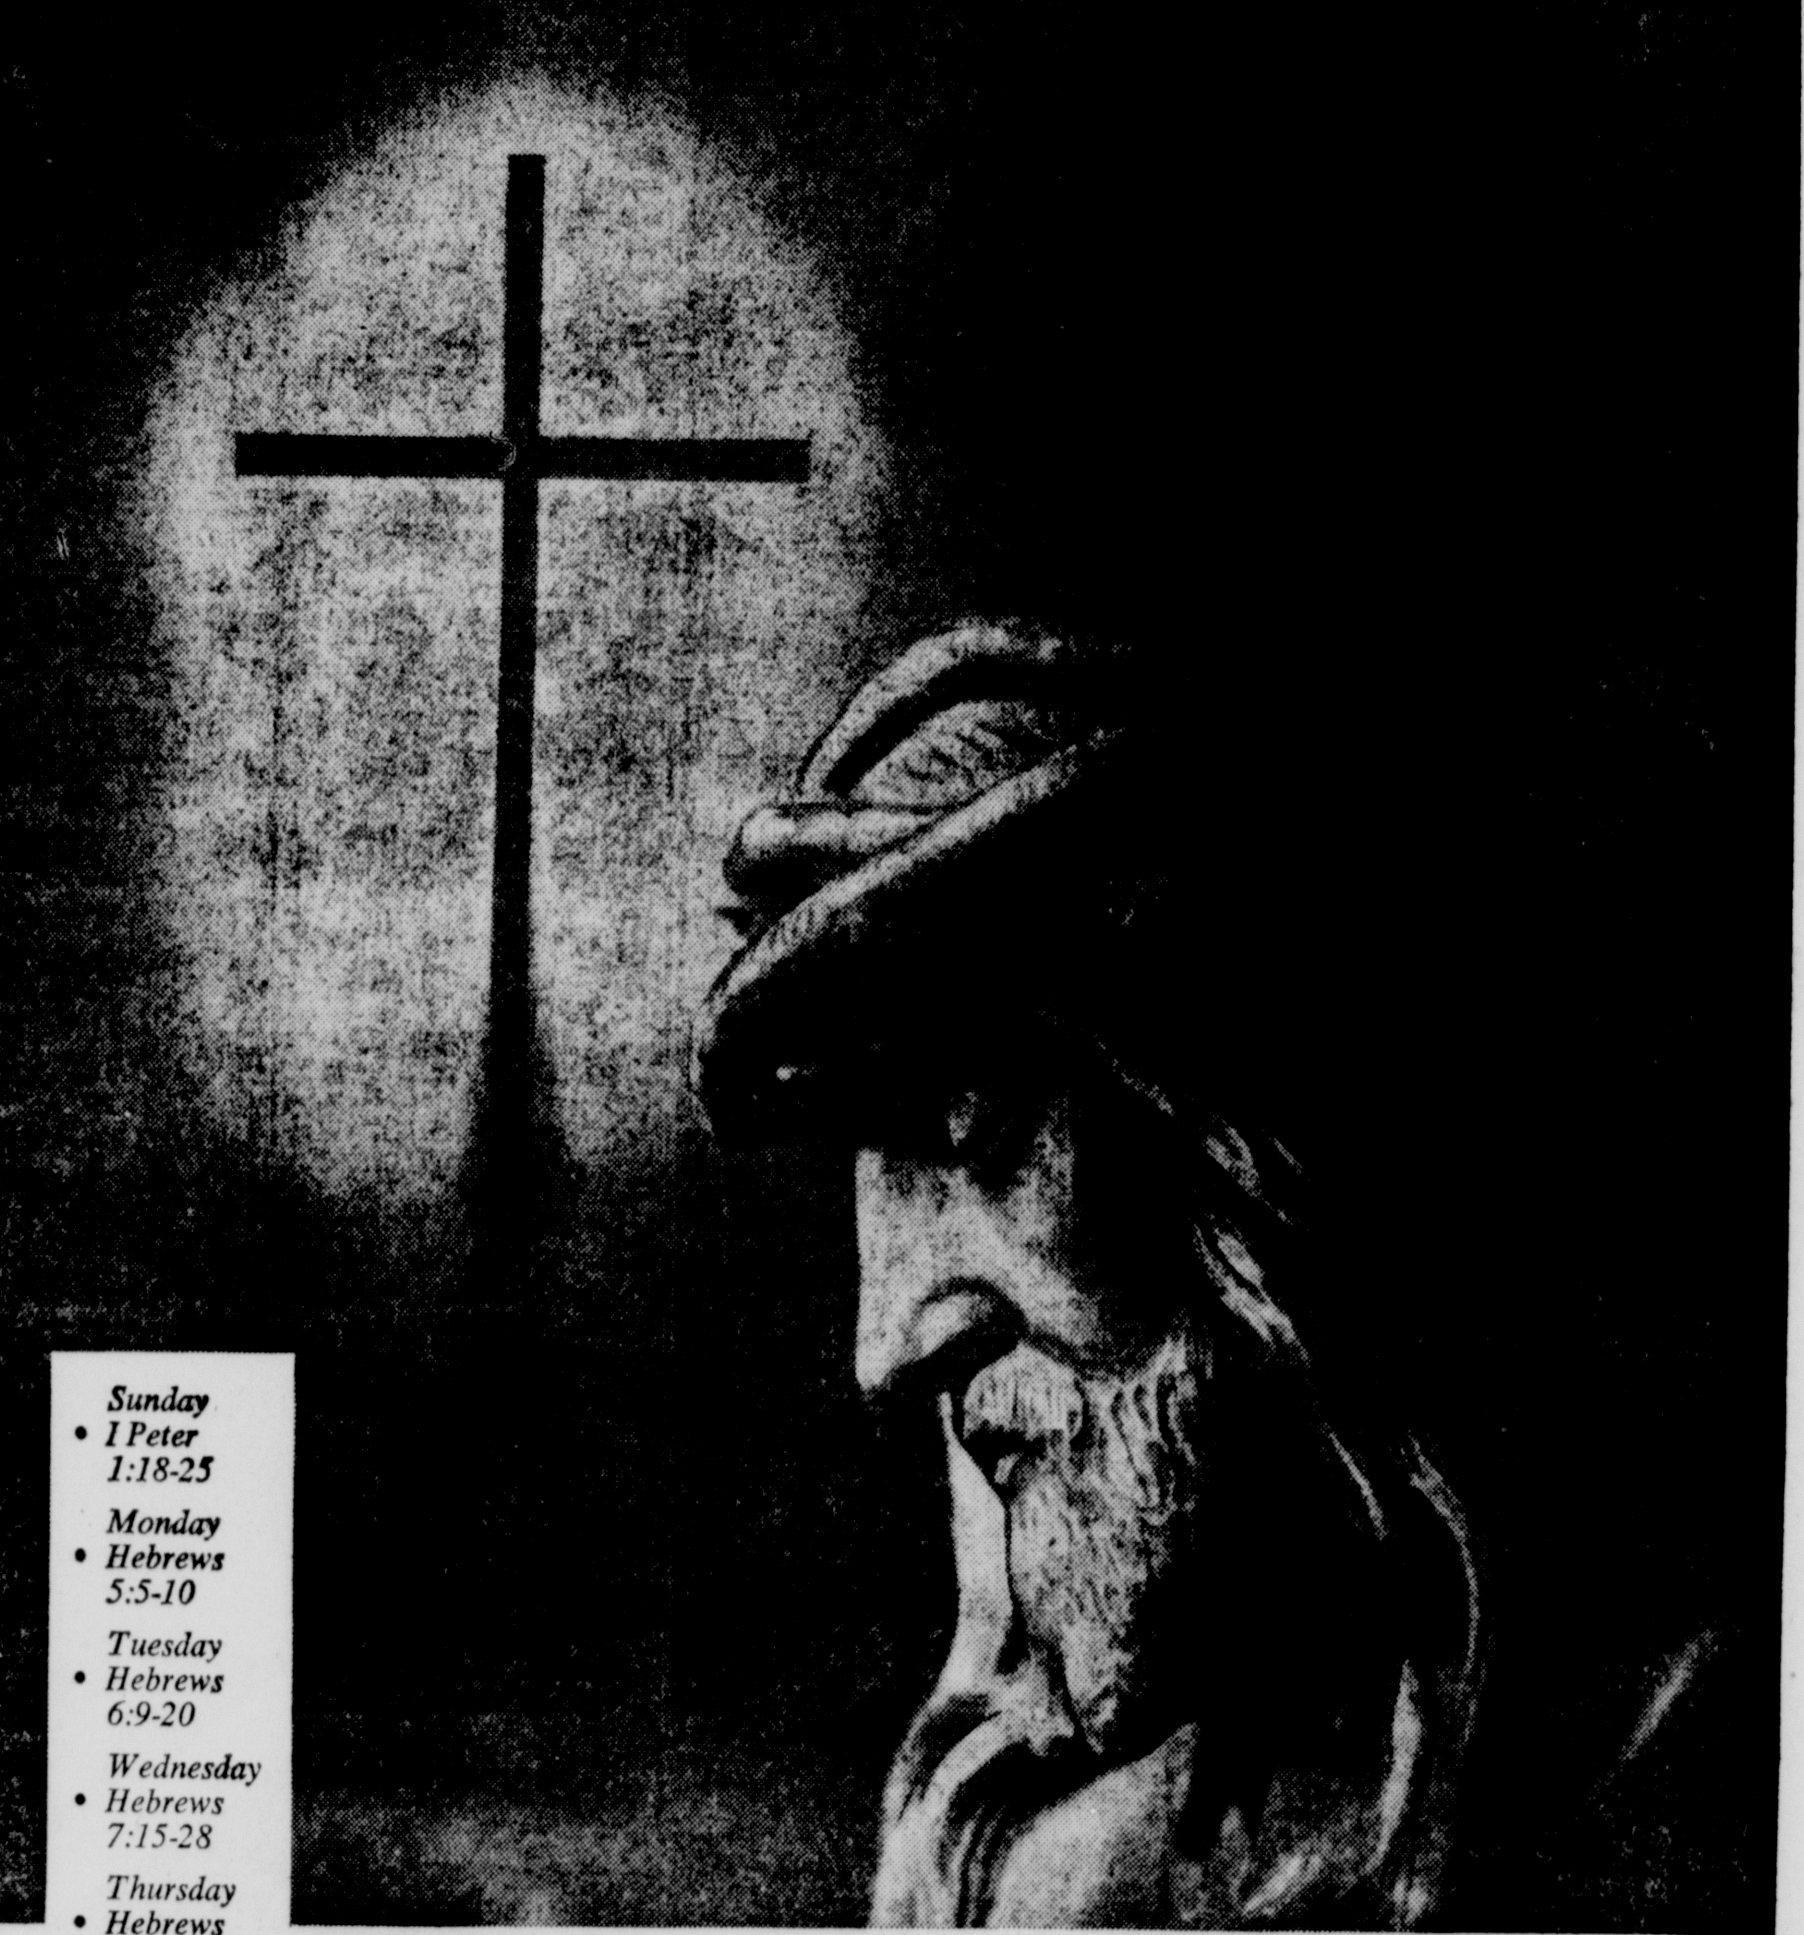

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein said Thursday he will go to the United States within the next few days to discuss with President Nixon his proposals for the Middle East. Informants said he would leave Monday.

The Jordanian king denied there had been any direct contact with Israel on his proposal to reorganize his kingdom by creating a semiautonomous state of Palestine under his rule on the Israeli-occupied west bank of the Jordan River.

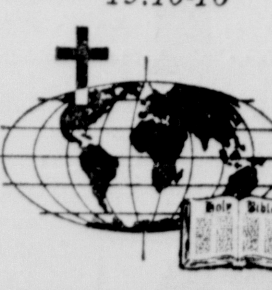

The king told a news conference: "There have been no such contacts."

He also said his proposal to create a United Arab Kingdom made up of the two territories on each side of the Jordan River could only be accomplished when Israel accepted the 1967 U.N. Security Council resolution as the basis for a peace settlement.

The night was dark and calm. All creatures were silent and leaves stood still as a lone man knelt in a garden called Gethsemane and prayed, "Not as I will, but as Thou wilt."

Around Him Jesus' disciples lay sleeping. Soon He knew would come betrayal, public condemnation and derision . . . and the long last march. And yet He prayed, "Thy will be done."

In the shadow of the Cross Jesus demonstrated perfect love and trust for God, His Father. In the hours ahead He would establish His Sonship for the atonement of all mankind.

And so today, in a world that needs this message of hope, let us commemorate that first Good Friday by acknowledging God as our Father, helping our churches to illustrate His way to the hungry, the sick, and the needy.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Much to the delight of "Old Willie" and the consternation of Mrs. Kelly, the terrible tempered terrier, we left the confines of the madhouse on S. Scioto St. Monday morning and returned to the hectic confines of the Herald newsroom.

Mrs. Kelly asked us to please clear up any confusion that may have been linked to our recent illness and her nursing care.

She claims she was not in competition with any member of the medical profession. The Florence Nightingale of the canine set claims her efforts were to prevent any signs of the "Irish Whoopandhollers" which never did befall her patient.

Her method of treatment consists of wagging the tail, barking joyously and licking the patient's hand.

After discussing the series of blood tests taken at Berger Hospital by the noupareil Paul Roan, Mrs. Kelly came to the conclusion that Paul comes from a family of gold miners because every time we walked in he uttered, with a gleam in his eye, "Maybe we'll strike a good vein today."

Never one to hold a grudge, she looked up from her bowl of burgerbits and crushed pineapple at breakfast this morning and stated, "I take my nurses cap off to Dr. Bob — He's the Real McCoy."

Our little gem of information — Longest golf hole in the world is at North Carolina's Black Mountain Club. The hole measures 745 yards and probably takes two woods and a cannon to get home.

Our "fearless" forecast — Watch out for Grier Jones in the New Orleans Open . . . State basketball honors will go to Cleveland East Tech, Bishop Ready and Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Lexington, Columbus Ready In AA Finals

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Top-ranked Lexington and No. 4 Columbus Ready will settle the Ohio Class AA state high school basketball title Saturday after fulfilling their own expectations in the semifinals.

"Neither expected to lose our first game and neither expects to lose the big one either," said Lexington mentor John Barr.

The unbeaten Minutemen from Richland County marked up victory No. 25 with a 59-47 thumping of Poland after Ready, 24-1, scored its 22nd straight triumph, 66-55 over Middletown Madison Thursday night.

The two powers will decide who succeeds Canton Lehman as Ohio Class AA champion at 11:30 a.m. Saturday in Ohio State's St. John Arena.

The Class AAA and A semifinals were scheduled Friday. In AAA, Cincinnati Princeton, 20-4, and Akron Central-Howe, 23-2, played at 11:30 a.m. and top-ranked Celina, 24-0, was paired with No. 3 Cleveland East Tech, 23-11, at 3:30 p.m. East Tech, 1958 - 59 Class AA winner, is the lone former champion in this year's field.

In the A semifinals, No. 1 Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South, 24-0, and Cincinnati St. Bernard, 21-5, battle at 7:30. Ridgedale, 19-5, tries for win number two this year over Continental, 19-5, in the 9:30 nightcap.

The AAA and A championship games also are Saturday. Lexington sent Poland home with a 22-3 record after hitting 50 per cent of its shots and rolling to a 19-9 lead.

Tim Davis, a slim 6-foot-6 senior, rifled in 17 points and helped the Minutemen control the rebounding 38-35. Dennis Sullivan led the Poland attack with 20 points, but got little aid.

"Ready is a big, strong, aggressive team and the tempo of the game will be decided in part by the officials' calls," said Barr. "It could become physical if they are lenient."

Poland connected on only 34 per cent of its field goals and the Bulldogs coach felt that was the story.

Good percentage of our shots to stay alive. We just didn't hit well enough. They don't give a smaller team like ourselves a chance for many second shots," Archibald said.

Ready coach Pat Penn expects his Silver Knights to shake their jitters in the title clash.

"I think we'll have a little more poise in the finals," he said. "We made some really stupid mistakes, but I think most of it was our inexperience."

Five of the first seven Ready players are underclassmen. One of the seniors, all-state Bob Taylor, led the charge against Madison, however.

Taylor, a 6-5 senior, drilled 18 points, grabbed 17 rebounds and played a standout defensive game.

"Taylor is the best Class AA player I've seen this year," said Madison mentor Larry Brandenburg. "Come to think of it, he just might be the best in the state in any class."

Ready survived nearly five minutes of scoreless basketball starting the second quarter and overturned a 29-26 Madison halftime lead. Jim Jones, a swift 5-10 sophomore, helped force 22 Mohawk turnovers and scored six straight points for a tell-tale 47-44 Ready lead in the third period.

Jones finished with a game-high 19 points, many of them after steals.

Mike Doliba and Larry Carpenter had 14 points apiece for Madison which wound up 24-2.

Foul Call Costs St. John's 69-67 Loss To Niagara

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Center Greg Cluess said he didn't, but referee Joe DeBonis said he did.

The referee had the last word, as usual, and called a foul on the St. John's, N.Y. big man.

Al Williams then made the last free throws, giving Niagara a tingling 69-67 basketball victory over the Redmen Thursday night in the semifinals of the 31st National Invitation Tournament.

"I didn't touch him, I didn't even come close," said Cluess after Niagara pulled out in the thriller on Williams' foul shots with five seconds left and joined Maryland in the finals Saturday.

The Terrapins earlier advanced to the playoff game by running Jacksonville out of Madison Square Garden with a 91-77 victory.

Before Williams made the pressure-packed shots, the Redmen called time out in an attempt to make the little guard nervous.

"I had confidence, though," said Williams. "I practice my foul shooting as much as I do my jump shots."

Despite denials, the 5-foot-9 Williams thought he was hampered by the 6-9 Cluess when he went up for a shot.

"He grabbed me and hit me on the arm," said Williams.

Williams wound up with 15 points. Marshall Wingate was Niagara's leading scorer, hitting for 23, including three key field goals in the last six minutes.

Tom McMillen scored 25 points, including six crucial points in less than a minute of the second half, to hold Maryland to a surprisingly easy victory over Jacksonville in the opener.

The Dolphins had trimmed the Terps' lead from 38-31 at the half to 52-49 with 11:30 left in the game. Then Len Elmore fired in a turn-around jumper and McMillen delivered two field goals and two foul shots to make it 60-49.

"It was a wild game and that's just the way we like to play them," said Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell. "We had a chance to really open it up tonight."

UCLA Bruins, Florida State To Meet

Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Walton and Otto Petty will never see eye to eye. Yet the 6-foot-11 UCLA center and the 5-7 Florida State guard loom as the key players this Saturday night in the national collegiate basketball finals.

Each propelled his team to a semifinal victory Thursday night, Walton and his favored UCLA bruins by a lopsided 96-77 over Louisville and Petty's Seminoles in a cliff-hanger.

Walton took only 13 shots, made 11 of them, wound up with 33 points and 21 rebounds and blocked six shots as the Bruins, seeking their sixth straight NCAA crown, demolished Louisville's Cardinals in the second half.

Florida State did its damage in the first half, leading by 23 points early in the final stanza, before edging North Carolina 79-75.

The free-wheeling Seminoles used quickness and a sizzling fast break plus Petty's dribbling skills to win. Later, winning Coach Hugh Durham said the same type of game is in store for the Bruins.

"We're not planning to slow the ball down," said Durham, admitting he's heard rumors that teams can't run and shoot with the Bruins and win.

"If you run against them, you might catch Walton away from the basket but if you slow down, he'll be there and gobble everything up."

Petty destroyed the North Carolina full-court press with some astonishing dribbling and Durham said:

UCLA Coach John Wooden admitted Petty was the key to Florida State's triumph.

"We expect Petty will give us trouble on our press but we'll give him a lot of trouble, also," said Wooden.

Florida State's offense ran into a cold spell midway through the second half against the Tar Heels and North Carolina chewed away until the score was 70-65 with 5:45 to play. But a layup by Greg Samuel, the Seminoles' 5-9 starting guard, helped pull Florida State into the final game.

Walton, double teamed most of the night, started UCLA's famed fast break with quick outlet passes.

Petty scored 10 points and had six assists in leading the Seminoles but the junior won't start against the Bruins Saturday. Samuel begins each game because he's better on defense. Durham said he brings on Petty to light a fire under his kids.

UCLA's Henry Bibby had an off night against Louisville, scoring just two points, but he was praised by Wooden for his fine defense on Jim Price. Even though the 6-foot-3 Cardinal guard scored 30 points, Wooden said many of them came when the game was no longer in doubt.

Jack Nicklaus Quits Smoking, Shares Lead

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "It's part of my Masters preparation," Jack Nicklaus said of his decision to quit smoking.

But the hard-hitting blond, the dominant figure on the pro golf tour this year, smiled and added: "It's no big thing. I go off and on all the time."

"I just quit yesterday. I decided it was the thing to do for the Masters. I find my nerves are better if I'm not smoking. I'm not as nervous and jumpy."

Nicklaus, the game's all-time leading money winner and the only two-time champion this season, made the comments Thursday after firing a six-under-par 66 to move into a five-way tie for first place in the $125,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.

He was tied with Billy Casper, who also talked about his nerves, veteran Mason Rudolph and long-shots Bunky Henry and Bob Payne. All forged 66s as over half the field of 147 matched or bettered par.

There were seven players at 67, just one stroke off the pace, and a total of 24 locked within three strokes of each other at the top.

Tied at five-under-par were Terry Wilson, Larry Ziegler, Dave Eichelberger, Ralph Johnston, Jim Colbert, John Schroeder and Billy Ziobro.

Some of the game's big names had their troubles. Defending champion Frank Beard could do no better than par 72. South African Gary Player had to rally for a 73. Tony Jacklin of England, winner of last week's Greater Jacksonville Open, was far back with a 74.

But their problems were nothing compared to those of Howie Johnson, Bobby Cole and Australian Bruce Crampton. Johnson and Cole each took a 10 on the 14th hole, Johnson hitting three in the water. And Crampton actually had a 69 but signed for a 70. Under the rules of golf, he's stuck with higher score.

Pro Football Rule Changes Allow More To Offense

HONOLULU (AP) — National Football League owners have changed their game by just seven yards—not even the distance of a first down. But Super Bowl coaches Tom Landry and Don Shula think that's enough to significantly aid the sport's harassed offensive units.

Four rule changes actually were adopted but the major one concerned movement of the hash marks used for the placement of the ball 3½ yards more towards the center of the field on either side, or an adjustment of seven yards.

It's that seven yards Dallas Coach Landry and Miami Coach Shula feel will give the offense more maneuverability against today's mammoth defensive units, which during the last three years have been held largely responsible for a 100 touchdown dropoff in scoring.

"I think it's a step in the right direction," said Landry. "It will enable offenses to operate better. It gives you more width of the field to attack both ways—with the run and the pass. The short side has become wider, and that's the significant change."

"I think that'll open things up a little," Shula concurred. "For example, we have Paul Warfield and we didn't like him on the short side of the field. Then here's Bob Griese—a young quarterback capable of scrambling who will have more field to work in."

Coupled with the hash mark move was the adoption of mandatory uniform markings for each NFL playing fields with the yard-line markings starting just one yard in from the new hash marks.

The first part of the change—moving the hash marks—serves the purpose of widening the field for offensive exploitation and, in theory, will aid the run, the pass and the kick. The second part of the change—uniform marking—destroys one of the keys used by some zone defenses.

Discussing the impact of making field markings uniform, Mark Duncan, the NFL's supervisor of officials, explained "that some teams used field markings as their keys" and that the change would prevent any team from getting an edge.

Coach Hank Stram of Kansas City agreed with that. "Any time you have more consistency the better the game will be," Stram said. "It takes away anything a team might do for an advantage from a local point of view."

In other rules action: —The owners also tried to stimulate the offense by permitting punts to be run out of end zone. Previously they were an automatic touchback.

—Made two changes in penalties: the penalty for a receiver stepping out of bounds and returning to catch a pass was reduced from 15 yards and loss of down to just loss of down. The penalty for grabbing a face mask was reduced to five yards and an automatic first down, unless in the judgment of the official the act is flagrant and then it will remain 15 yards and an automatic first down.

Steve Hawes, 6-foot-9 University of Washington center, hopes to play pro basketball next season.

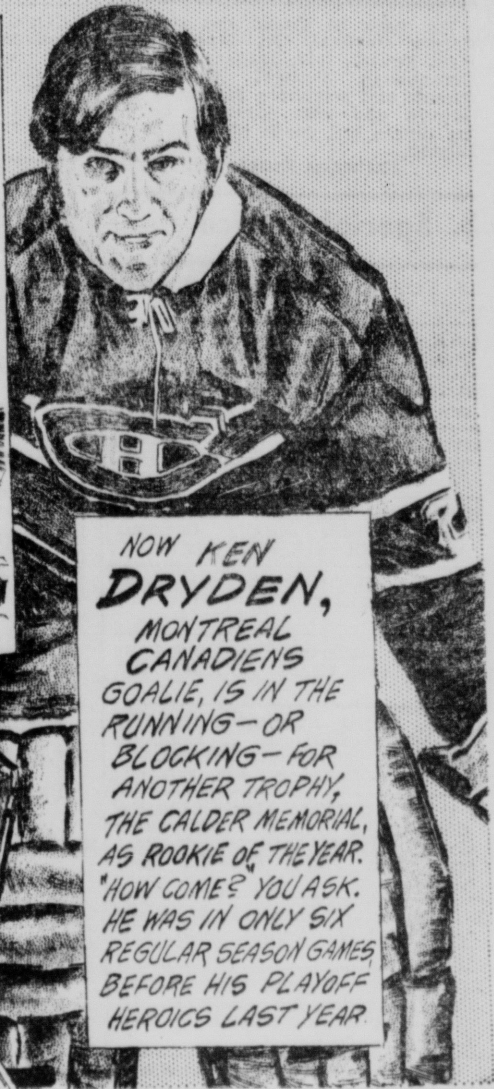

Swimmers Qualify For YMCA Meet

Two members of the Circleville "Piranha" Swim Club, swimming in the winter league with the Chillicothe YMCA, competed in three-state YMCA Regional Meet at Lansing, Mich., and qualified for a berth in the YMCA National Meet to be held in April at Erie, Pa.

Mike Sparks placed 11th in the 100-yard butterfly for boys 13-14 and Steve Penn finished 12th in the 100-yard backstroke for boys 13-14, to qualify for the National.

Jay L. Arledge, of Chillicothe, who has performed with the Piranhas for the past two years, placed 10th in the 200-yard individual medley and will also compete in the National Meet.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Much to the delight of "Old Willie" and the consternation of Mrs. Kelly, the terrible tempered terrier, we left the confines of the madhouse on S. Scioto St. Monday morning and returned to the hectic confines of the Herald newsroom.

Mrs. Kelly asked us to please clear up any confusion that may have been linked to our recent illness and her nursing care.

She claims she was not in competition with any member of the medical profession. The Florence Nightingale of the canine set claims her efforts were to prevent any signs of the "Irish Whoopandholers" which never did befall her patient.

Her method of treatment consists of wagging the tail, barking joyously and licking the patient's hand.

After discussing the series of blood tests taken at Berger Hospital by the noupereil Paul Roan, Mrs. Kelly came to the conclusion that Paul comes from a family of gold miners because every time we walked in he uttered, with a gleam in his eye, "Maybe we'll strike a good vein today".

Never one to hold a grudge, she looked up from her bowl of burgerbits and crushed pineapple at breakfast this morning and stated, "I take my nurses cap off to Dr. Bob — He's the Real McCoy".

Our little gem of information — Longest golf hole in the world is at North Carolina's Black Mountain Club. The hole measures 745 yards and probably takes two woods and a cannon to get home.

Our "fearless" forecast — Watch out for Grier Jones in the New Orleans Open. . . State basketball honors will go to Cleveland East Tech, Bishop Ready and Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Lexington, Columbus Ready In AA Finals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Top-ranked Lexington and No. 4 Columbus Ready will settle the Ohio Class AA state high school basketball title Saturday after fulfilling their own expectations in the semifinals.

"Neither expected to lose our first game and neither expects to lose the big one either," said Lexington mentor John Barr. The winner, with jockey Eddie Snell aboard, covered the six furlongs in 1:14.1-5 on a fast track. He said $4.60, $3.40 and $2.60. Chickasaw Squaw paid $5.20 and $2.80 for second. Retort was third at $2.80.

Pro Football Rule Changes Allow More To Offense

HONOLULU (AP) — National Football League owners have changed their game by just seven yards—not even the distance of a first down. But Super Bowl coaches Tom Landry and Don Shula think that's enough to significantly aid the sport's harassed offensive units.

Four rule changes actually were adopted but the major one concerned movement of the hash marks used for the placement of the ball 3½ yards more towards the center of the field on either side, or an adjustment of seven yards.

It's that seven yards Dallas Coach Landry and Miami Coach Shula feel will give the offense more maneuverability against today's mammoth defensive units, which during the last three years have been held largely responsible for a 100 touchdown dropoff in scoring.

"I think it's a step in the right direction," said Landry. "It will enable offenses to operate better. It gives you more width of the field to attack both ways—with the run and the pass. The short side has become wider, and that's the significant change."

"I think that'll open things up a little," Shula concurred. "For example, we have Paul Warfield and we didn't like him on the short side of the field. Then here's Bob Griese—a young quarterback capable of scrambling who will have more field to work in."

Coupled with the hash mark move was the adoption of mandatory uniform markings for each NFL playing fields with the yard-line markings starting just one yard in from the new hash marks.

The first part of the change—moving the hash marks—serves the purpose of widening the field for offensive exploitation and, in theory, will aid the run, the pass and the kick. The second part of the change—uniform marking—destroys one of the keys used by some zone defenses.

Discussing the impact of making field markings uniform, Mark Duncan, the NFL's supervisor of officials, explained "that some teams used field markings as their keys" and that the change would prevent any team from getting an edge.

Coach Hank Stram of Kansas City agreed with that.

"Any time you have more consistency the better the game will be," Stram said. "It takes away anything a team might do for an advantage from a local point of view."

In other rules action:

—The owners also tried to stimulate the offense by permitting punts to be run out of end zone. Previously they were an automatic touchback.

—Made two changes in penalties: the penalty for a receiver stepping out of bounds and returning to catch a pass was reduced from 15 yards and loss of down to just loss of down. The penalty for grabbing a face mask was reduced to five yards and an automatic first down, unless in the judgment of the official the act is flagrant and then it will remain 15 yards and an automatic first down.

Steve Hawes, 6-foot-9 University of Washington center, hopes to play pro basketball next season.

Cavs Trade Draft

Choices For Roberson

Floridians Defeat Condors, 126-115
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mack Calvin is capable of putting on a show on the basketball court. The 6-foot Floridians' guard went into his act against the Pittsburgh Condors and entertained the fans— all 511 of them.

Calvin scored 15 points in the last eight minutes of Thursday night's game as the Floridians came from behind for a 126-115 American Basketball Association victory over the Condors.

He hit three jump shots, three layups and three foul shots. Before Calvin's spree, the Condors led 98-96.

In the only other ABA game,
Utah defeated Memphis 137-117.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mack Calvin is capable of putting on a show on the basketball court. The 6-foot Floridians' guard went into his act against the Pittsburgh Condors and entertained the fans— all 511 of them.

Calvin scored 15 points in the last eight minutes of Thursday night's game as the Floridians came from behind for a 126-115 American Basketball Association victory over the Condors. He hit three jump shots, three layups and three foul shots. Before Calvin's spree, the Condors led 98-96.

In the only other ABA game, Utah defeated Memphis 137-117.

Ar Academy Seeking Applicants

A career opportunity for high school juniors is available through the United Air Force Academy.

High school students who are interested in entering the Academy upon graduation should apply for nomination as soon as possible, according to information received from Lt. Colonel George K. Bernhard Jr., Academy Liaison officer for Pickaway County.

Successful high school students will be considered for Academy appointments with the sponsorship of Senators Robert Taft Jr. and William Saxby and U.S. Representative William Harsha. In the case of the two senators, appointments are being sought from all over Ohio while Representative Harsha is seeking a candidate from Ohio's sixth district which includes Pickaway County.

A good scholastic standing, participation in extracurricular activities and physical fitness are the most important factors considered by congressmen in choosing their nominees.

Lt. Colonel Bernhard noted that the Academy schooling was a four year program leading to a bachelor of science degree and a commission as a regular 2nd lieutenant in the Air Force. He also noted that 60 per cent of Academy graduates go on to flying training.

A member of the Air Force Reserve, not on active duty, Lt. Colonel Bernhard represents the Academy at Logan Elm High, Teays Valley High, Circleville High and Westfall High Schools in Pickaway County. He also represents the Academy at high schools in Fayette and Ross Counties.

To obtain information about the Air Force Academy, a student or guidance counselor may contact him by writing: Lt. Col. George K. Bernhard Jr., 750 S. High St., Columbus, Ohio 43206, or by calling 443-4851.

A copy of the Air Force Academy catalog may be obtained by writing to: Director of Admissions, United States Air Force Academy, Colorado 80840.

Cut Pharmacy Bill Backlog

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — New procedures being used in the State Welfare Department are reducing the big backlog in pharmacy bills for welfare recipients, according to Director John Hansen.

The backlog hit an all-time high of $6.3 million in Mid-February.

Hansen told a management group Thursday night the backlog has been cut to $5 million in 30 days because of changes begun as a result of a payment system review by a federally funded contractor.

The department processed $1.9 million in pharmacy bills during the first 17 days of March, Hansen said, and payments for the entire month are expected to hit $3 million.

He said this compared with invoices of $993,607 processed for payment in January and $1.1 million in February.

Low-Income Housing Program Planned

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity will attempt to design housing that the "truly poor" can afford, Director Philip V. Sanchez says.

OEO is beginning work on a $4 million experimental design program "to find out if it's possible to construct a low-income home on a massive scale," Sanchez told newsmen Wednesday. Later contractors will bid on constructing sample units.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

Q — Will the IRS automatically give a taxpayer an extension of time to file his income tax return?

A — A taxpayer can now get an automatic two-month extension to file his Form 1040 by properly completing Form 4868 and sending it to the IRS along with payment of tax that is estimated to be owed for the year. This extension is available for tax years ending on or after December 31, 1971 and thus can be taken during the current filing season. The Form 4868 must be filed with the IRS Service Center on or before the due date of the Form 1040.

If the tentative tax paid, when submitting Form 4868, is less than the final tax shown on the Form 1040, interest at the rate of 6 per cent a year from the original due date will apply on the amount of the difference. The late payment penalty will also apply unless there is reasonable cause shown for the delay. Reasonable cause will be presumed if the balance due on the Form 1040 is no more than 10 per cent of the total tax for the year and this balance is paid with the Form 1040.

Q — How did the new tax law change the personal exemption and standard deduction on this year's tax return?

A — The Revenue Act of 1971 increased the personal exemption to $675 for tax year 1971. The new law did not change the standard deduction which the Tax Reform Act of 1969 had increased to 13 per cent of adjusted gross income, or $1,500, whichever is less.

Q — Where can I get some information about the tax treatment of a DISC — the Domestic International Sales Corporation — established by the new tax law?

A — A new publication, "DISC — A handbook for Exporters" can be obtained for 40 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington D. C. 20402. You may also call your IRS office for information on DISC.

Q — Are alimony payments deductible?

A — Yes, if you itemize deductions on your return. The person who receives alimony must include these payments in income. The reverse is true for child support payments. These payments are not deductible to the one who pays them and are nontaxable to the recipient.

Q — I made a political contribution last year. May I deduct it on my 1971 return?

A — No. Under the Revenue Act of 1971, only political contributions made after December 31, 1971 can be deducted up to $50 ($100 for a joint return), if you itemize deductions. Instead of a deduction, the taxpayer can take a credit on his 1972 return against his tax for 50 per cent of the contribution up to $25.00 ($25 for a joint return).

If you plan to make any political contributions this year, be sure to keep good records to justify a deduction or credit on your 1972 return.

Q — I understand that the IRS has an official income tax guide for individuals. Where can I get a copy?

A — A copy of Publication 17, "Your Federal Income Tax," can be purchased for 75 cents at IRS district offices, the Government Printing Office in Washington, D. C. 20402, and many post offices throughout the country.

Q — Should I still use Schedule D to report a gain from the sale of rental property?

A — No. Schedule D is now used only for reporting the sale or exchange of a capital asset and in computing the alternative tax. Form 4797, "Supplemental Schedule of Gains and Losses," should be used to report certain sales, exchanges, or involuntary conversions of business or depreciable property, including the sale of rental property.
